AAA Official Announces
Checks for 1937 Soil
Program Compliance to Be Mailed 'in Earnest.'

PAYMENTS HELD UP TO HELP GROWERS

'Wished To Give Them
Time To Become Eligible,' Director Declares.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Payments to Georgia farmers amounting to approximately $9,000,000 for conforming to the 1937 crop control program under the soil conservation act of 1935, will be begun in earnest early in February, Acting Director I. W. Duggan, of the southern division of the AAA, today advised Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton, Georgia.

Brown, who has been holding frequent conferences with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other high officials of the department looking to speedy payment of benefit checks to farmers of his state, said he was highly pleased with the assurances obtained from Director Duggan and he had every reason to believe checks would start flowing into Georgia "very soon."

'36 Checks Bigger.

Payments to Georgia farmers under the 1936 program totaled $10,686,000, Duggan said, but he estimated that payments for last year would not equal this figure because of cotton acreage expansion during 1937. He explained that if Georgia farmers had carried out their full share of the soil building program during 1936, they would have received approximately $5,000,000 more.

Payments for last year's program, he declared, have been held up largely because "we wished to give all farmers plenty of time to perform terracing or other work necessary for them to come within the terms of the act."

Some Payments Made.

Duggan said a large number of farmers in Clarke and Pickens counties, Georgia, have received their checks.

The soil conservation act provides that the secretary of agriculture may not incur obligations in excess of $500,000,000 for any one calendar year.

The secretary is obligated to protect the interests of tenants and sharecroppers as well as large land owners and he is authorized to utilize county and community committees of agricultural extension services of all states, or other approved agencies. He also must, in every practical way, encourage and provide for soil conserving and soil rebuilding practices rather than the growing of soil depleting commercial crops.

Atlanta-Bound Plane Is Lost in Tennessee

An intensive search for one of three Atlanta-bound Cuban planes en route from St. Louis, reported missing last night after two were forced down by fog near Pikeville, Tenn., was launched this morning by Nashville and Atlanta offices of the Department of Air Commerce.

The three planes were purchased by the Cuban government and were headed to Havana. Captain Manuel Orta, pilot of one of the two grounded ships, said, "All efforts to locate the missing plane had been unavailing last night, the Department of Air Commerce reported. A check of emergency landing fields in Tennessee failed to reveal any trace."

Black Urges Court To Void Protection for Corporations

Majority Refuses To Reverse
52-Year-Old Interpretation of Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Associate Justice Hugo L. Black urged the supreme court today to abandon a 52-year-old interpretation of the constitution giving corporations the protection of the 14th amendment.

The amendment provides that no state may "deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

The court long has held that the word "person" means corporations as well as individuals. Black suggested this had wrongly subjected state laws regulating corporations to "censorship of the United States courts."

Third Dissent.

This dissenting opinion, together with another dissent delivered by Justice Black today in the case of an Indiana school teacher, and a dissenting opinion in the case of the Indianapolis Water Company delivered immediately after he took office, marks the third time that Justice Black has dissented to opinions of the court since he came to the bench.

Black expressed his views in dissenting to the opinion of seven of his colleagues that California cannot tax premiums received by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company from other insurance companies doing business in California.

"Should Not Stand."

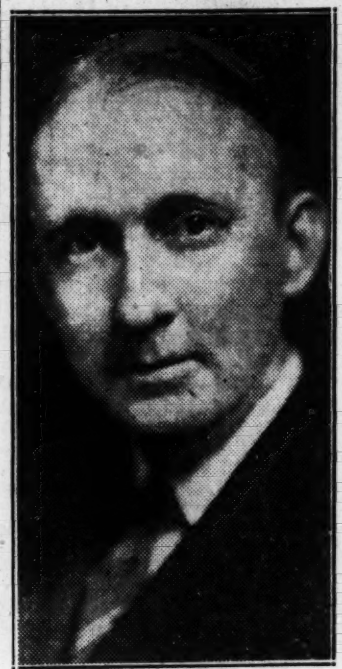

"A constitutional interpretation that is wrong should not stand," Black said, "I believe this court should now overrule previous decisions which interpreted the fourteenth amendment to include corporations....

"The states did not adopt the amendment with knowledge of its sweeping meaning under its present construction."

"No section of the amendment gave notice to the people that if adopted, it would subject every state law and municipal ordinance

DIRECTOR VANSANT

State Praise Program.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

H. J. France and Miss Sue Stanford, Coffee County agricultural and home demonstration agents, respectively, yesterday set 1,000 families as their quota in The Atlanta Constitution's Plant-to-Prospere campaign.

R. L. Vansant, state director of the Farm Security Administration, said the 10,000 families on its rolls would be encouraged to join the program.

Mr. France and Miss Stanford were the first agents in Georgia to set a quota for themselves.

Georgia's wide interest in the program continued, with other agricultural agents, newspapers and private citizens praising the program and terming it the "salvation of the Georgia farmer and a clear road to prosperity for every Georgia business."

Sheriff Gadis "Booster."

Sheriff G. W. Gadis, of Bartow county, yesterday praised the program, asserting "I am an enthusiastic booster." "He has been sheriff as a sideline for many years," Milton L. Fleetwood, editor of The Tribune News, Cartersville, said, "but farming is his major occupation."

"Bartow county farmers need not worry about the cotton market," Sheriff Gadis said. "They can make far more following the Plant-to-Prospere program. I specialize in diversified crops, especially livestock and grain crops."

Agents to Get Entry Blanks.

Preparations were hastened to provide application blanks for all county and home demonstration agents, so planters could begin mass registration as planned by Georgia Agricultural Extension Service and the Georgia State College of Agriculture, co-operating with The Constitution.

An application blank for white entrants, carried in this issue of The Constitution, should be filled will take up the senate's substitute liquor bill today upon expiration of the period of unanimous consent. Speaker Roy V. Harris made this announcement at the conclusion of yesterday's session, which was marked by final enactment of the Rivers-sponsored tax reorganization bill. The measure now is ready for the Governor's signature.

Harris added a prediction the senate substitute would be accepted by the house.

"The bill is as nearly perfect as we could hope to get," the speaker said. "I believe that even a number of the dregs will support it, because I believe it carries enforcement provisions we never before have had in Georgia."

Rivers Defers Address.

Meanwhile Governor Rivers deferred until his appearance before a joint session of the assembly to discuss the tax situation, completion of work on the liquor tax bill and the reorganization bill.

He informed the house and senate yesterday that what he would have to say on taxes depended on the final outcome of those two measures and that he would speak when they were disposed of.

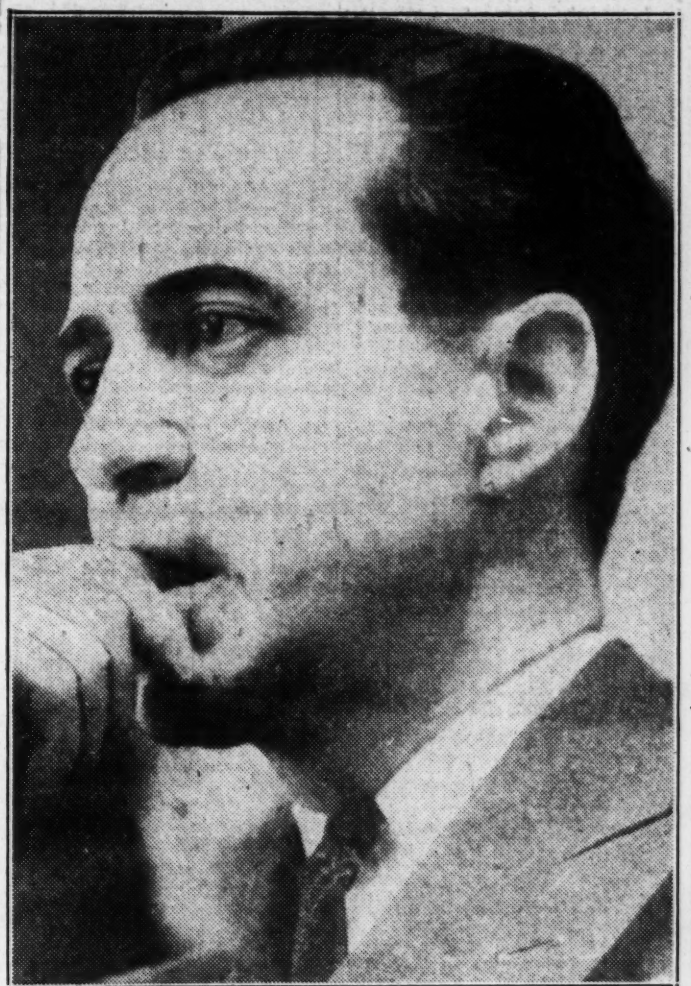

Speaker Harris said he was not able to predict how long it would take the house to accept the liquor tax bill. If that work is completed this morning, the Governor will speak this afternoon. If the house spends the entire day on the liquor bill, the speech will be delivered tomorrow.

Wets Seek No Changes

Harris said the wets would not ask changes in the senate substitute, which provides for a straight local option. Representative Ross Thomas, of Chattooga county, author of the liquor tax bill, which the house passed two weeks ago, said the senate bill was satisfactory to him. Other wet leaders,

Safe Drivers To Get Refund In Insurance

Atlanta Casualty and Surety
Companies Report New National Policy.

It was announced here yesterday by Atlanta companies of the national bureau of casualty and surety underwriters that safe drivers would be rewarded by a refund of insurance.

Under the plan, which becomes effective in Georgia today, private passenger automobile owners, who are insured for both bodily injury and property damage liability, and have no accident, will receive a 15 per cent refund of the premium for such coverages provided no claims are paid or reserves for claims set up under their policies during the 12 months are in force.

The reward will be paid by the insurance company, through the agent who wrote the policy, 30 days after expiration of the insurance.

The plan will be applicable to all private passenger automobiles insured for both bodily injury and property damage liability on a specified car basis for a period of 12 months at regular manual rates.

Officials of the national bureau of casualty and surety underwriters at New York, in announcing the plan, said "it is the answer to appeals of careful drivers for recognition of individual preferential treatment in their insurance costs and as encouragement of more careful driving."

Agents here hailed the plan as a strong incentive to motorists to drive more carefully and as a

DOCTOR EXPLAINS WRIGHT OPERATION

Accused Man Went Under
Knife for Wife's Sake,
Surgeon Tells Court.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(AP)—

The defense formally introduced medical evidence today that Paul A. Wright underwent a sterilization operation for the safety of the wife he is accused of murdering.

The evidence, in the form of a deposition by the doctor who performed the operation more than three years ago was read by Jerry Giesler, attorney for Wright.

In the deposition, Dr. Charles B. Huggins testified he treated the defendant's wife, Evelyn, and that her ailment, in his opinion, made it inadvisable for her to have another child.

Dr. Huggins said Wright offered to submit to a sterilization operation so his wife would not be endangered.

"Why was it performed on Mr. Wright?" Dr. Huggins was asked. "Because of her health and danger of morbidity," was the reply.

The deposition continued: "I think that a man who had undergone such an operation would be more likely to suffer shock if he suddenly saw his wife being unfaithful."

This testimony was in support of the defense argument that Wright was so upset when he found his wife and friend, John Kimmel, embracing that he was temporarily blinded with rage and shot them both to death.

The state charges that Wright

JAPAN'S APOLOGY
ACCEPTED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—

The United States today accepted Japan's apology for a Japanese sentry slapping the face of John M. Allison, third secretary in charge of the American embassy at Nanking.

The State Department at Washington made public a report from Allison which said the commander and 20 men of the unit involved in the incident would be court-martialed.

The Japanese apology, made orally in Tokyo, said the slapping was a most regrettable occurrence. Allison was slapped when he attempted to enter a Japanese barracks in investigating an alleged assault on a Chinese woman who had taken refuge on American property.

DIVORCE PLANNED BY CLAIRE DODD

Actress To Seek Freedom From J. M. Strauss.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31.—(P)—Claire Dodd, blonde film actress, said today that after six years of married life she was going to divorce her husband, J. Milton Strauss, Hollywood investment broker.

Miss Dodd made the announcement just before boarding a plane for New York. Her "new heart throb," she said, was going to sail for Europe Wednesday and she wanted to say good-bye to him. She said he was a "wealthy New York businessman," but declined to identify him.

The actress said she would start divorce proceedings upon her return to Hollywood.

Night-Crowing Banty Draws Police Defense

MACON, Jan. 31.—(P)—A lusty-voiced bantam rooster remains the cock of the walk at the home of Deputy Sheriff Roman Raley today after a week-end skirmish with city police.

The rooster was arrested last Friday night and taken to city barracks on complaint of a woman neighbor.

The complainant said the red and black rooster not only crowed at sunrise, he also crowed at night, disturbing her rest.

When Deputy Raley heard what had happened, he complained to police, and Captain J. T. Avent, police inspector, instructed officers to return the pet to its roost.

There is no city ordinance to prohibit a rooster crowing at night in his own back yard, it was learned.

Has New 'Heart Throb'

Claire Dodd, of the films, has announced plans to divorce J. M. Strauss, broker, for a new "heart throb," whom she is flying to meet before he sails for Europe.

AMERICUS, Jan. 31.—Every Americus resident 21 years of age or older will be permitted to vote in an unofficial election on "fast" or "slow" time, opening tomorrow and continuing through February 14.

A recent election here, resulted in a close victory for advocates of "slow" time. Members of the Americus Junior Chamber of Commerce, dissatisfied with the result, petitioned city council to order "fast" time in effect during the coming summer. When other organizations opposed the Junior Chamber proposal, council agreed to an unofficial ballot.

M'BEAN GIRL, 11, READS 192 VOLUMES IN YEAR

McBEAN, Jan. 31.—(P)—Iris Westbrook, 11, has turned out to be the best customer the McBean library has. During the past year, records show, the young miss borrowed 192 books, and members of the family attest to the fact she has read many others in the same period.

Although she ranks high in school, Iris is no bookworm, as she plays both basketball and tennis and is interested in athletics. She has made up her mind to be a journalist. The only hitch so far is her little sister Nell, age 7, who has more lofty ambitions for her sister.

"Iris is going to be an aviator," she maintains. Iris doesn't agree.

House To Get Liquor Bill Today; Rivers Reorganization Plan Passed

including Grayson, of Chatham, Carmichael, of Cobb, and Sabados, of Dougherty, also approved it.

Sabados, as chairman of the house temperance committee, which voted overwhelmingly for a tax on liquor, is the nominal wet leader of the lower branch of the assembly.

Commissioner Appointive.
The acceptance of a conference committee report on the tax reorganization bill was seen as a major victory for the Rivers administration. As enacted, the bill provides for the appointment of a single revenue commissioner for six years. A group in the senate had sought to make the office elective.

The house accepted the conference committee report by a vote of 115 to 49 after a short debate. The senate accepted by a vote of 26 to 18, only after a hard fight against the appointive provision, led by Senator G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta. The senate also voted down a motion which would have permitted reconsideration of the acceptance vote today. The bill will go to the Governor for his signature as soon as it has been engrossed by Clerk Joe Boone, of the house.

Immediately upon final passage of the bill, speculation arose as to the Governor's choice for the important appointment, considered by some the most important of his administration because of the wide powers given the commissioner.

T. Grady Head Mentioned.
The most talked of name was that of T. Grady Head, at present a member of the revenue commission. Head, a resident of Ringgold, formerly represented Catoosa county in the house of representatives.

In deferring until today or later his speech before the assembly, Governor Rivers pointed out that until he knew whether the tax reorganization plan and the liquor bill were to be passed.

The following message from the Governor to the senate and house of representatives was read: "It had been my purpose to come before the assembly this morning at 11:30 with a message analyzing the financial status of the state with reference to payment of the appropriation bill.

Awaits House Action.
"I had hoped by 11:30 this morning the reorganization bill and the liquor bill would have been finally acted upon, so as to enable me to intelligently appraise the fiscal condition of the state. I cannot intelligently analyze the financial situation until these two major measures are finally acted upon.

"In view of the fact that these two measures have not been finally acted upon, but apparently are in position to be finally disposed of today and in the morning, I will await the pleasure of the assembly following the final action upon these two measures for my message.

Respectfully submitted,
E. D. RIVERS, Governor."

Salary of $4,800.
The tax bill, as finally passed, provides for appointment of the revenue commissioner by the Governor for a term of six years, at a salary of $4,800 a year. His first term would expire January 1, 1944.

A three-man board of tax appeals would be established, composed of the comptroller general, state treasurer and state auditor. The comptroller general would relinquish all his collecting functions, remaining only commissioner of withdrawals and commissioner of insurance.

The commissioner would have no authority to reject a county tax digest or raise the digest, either in whole or in part.

Senator Millican assailed the committee report, and drew attention that the senate had voted "overwhelmingly" to make the office of revenue commissioner elective rather than appointive.

"Talk about centralizing control in one place," he said, "this bill is putting every tax collecting function in the hands of one man under the direct control of the Governor of this state."

Asks Post Be Elective.
Senator Terrell told the senate the legislative trend was one "continually drifting away from local self-government," and urged insistence that the post be elective.

Senator Walter Whitehead warned: "We are undertaking to surpass Russia. We are extending a five-year plan to include a six-year plan. You are destroying the strength of the ballot, giving the Governor the power to appoint, appoint and appoint, and to create one political machine after another."

Senator Thomas Chason defended the bill, and insisted taxes would be better collected under the tax commissioner. He branded the present system as "antiquated," and added "honest taxpayers will have nothing to fear."

Senator Paul Lindsay, a member of the conference committee, told the senate the appointive feature would eliminate costly election campaigns and assure the people of a capable commissioner amenable to the Governor, who, in turn, must answer to the people.

House Argument Mild.
The bill also brought some argument in the house but its fight was mild compared with the battle in the senate.

Representative Pilcher, of Warren, vigorously attacked provisions of the bill giving the Governor authority to appoint the tax commissioner and empowering him with the right to accept or reject tax digests submitted by county officials.

Pilcher told the house the appointive feature of the bill "would go a long way toward dictatorship."

"This is a scheme to raise county tax digests," he said, "and get that $4,000,000 they need. You small county boys had better think about this before you vote for the conference committee report."

One of the house members of the conference committee, Carmichael, of Cobb, told Pilcher the comptroller general has had the right to accept or reject county tax digests since 1913.

Joel, of Clarke, asked Carmichael if the house refused to accept a senate amendment to make the tax commissioner elective instead of appointive "because they wanted utilities to pay their pro-rata share of taxes."

"The gentleman is eminently correct," Carmichael answered. "It has long been known utilities are in position to hold a political whip over any elective officer who deals with them in matters of taxation."

Joel argued that the Governor, who would appoint the commissioner, is an elective officer in politics." Carmichael told him the man who would deal with utilities on taxation would be the tax commissioner.

One section of the conference committee's report provided that the house and senate would agree that the tax commissioner be bound by the same laws regulating the approval of county tax digests as are now in force with reference to the approval of same by the comptroller general.

Revision on Appeals Urged.
It also recommended that both branches agree to a revision providing for appeals from the findings of the tax commissioner. A taxpayer whose claim for refund is denied by the commissioner would have the right to sue for refund in the superior court of the county in which he resides, under the committee agreement.

The senate refused to accept house amendments to an administration-sponsored prison reform bill changing the Prison Commission to a pardon and parole commission.

PROGRESSIVE PLAN FINANCING IS URGED

L. W. Robert, Southeastern Governors' Conference Consultant, Speaks to House.

Georgia legislators were urged to finance fully the state's progressive program yesterday by L. W. (Chip) Robert, consultant of the Conference of Southeastern Governors.

Robert, pointing out that the state has come to the forefront through the program enacted by the general assembly since Governor Rivers' inauguration, said money to pay for it must be raised, even "if you have to pass a sales tax or a gross income tax."

He read a telegram from Governor Hugh White, of Mississippi, which asserted that Mississippi had solved its revenue problem by imposing a general sales tax. White was to visit Atlanta but was unable to come, Robert said.

He outlined the objectives of the Conference of Southeastern Governors to the representatives and asked their support in carrying out the plan to promote the southeastern section.

Robert addressed the house of representatives by special invitation. The house adopted a resolution yesterday morning asking him to appear at his convenience. Speaker Roy V. Harris introduced him.

mission. It asked that a conference committee be named to iron out differences.

House amendments to the bill removed the Governor from the pardon board, provided that a majority vote of the three commissioners would be sufficient to grant paroles or pardons, and fixed terms of commissioners at six years.

The senate passed, 39 to 2, a bill by Senator Otto Griner authorizing inclusion in the state aid system all highways, including post roads, at the discretion of the Highway Board. The bill is designed to eliminate numerous highway mileage bills.

$20,000 for Dr. Herty.
The house passed and sent to the senate two appropriations bills.

One would appropriate up to $20,000 to the Department of Natural Resources, to be used in the development of the pine paper pulp industry. This money would go to the research laboratory of Dr. Charles Herty, Savannah scientist.

This is a different measure from that passed by the senate and sent to the house to establish a Herty foundation for the further development of pulp paper making. The house bill was introduced by Fowler, of Treutlen.

The other appropriation bill would provide $50,000 a year for the years 1937-38 and 1938-39 for use by the Department of Entomology in a campaign to keep Georgia free of the ravages of the white-fringed beetle.

The house passed and sent to the Governor a senate resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to allow counties to levy special taxes for fire protection of forests.

KODYE
Typewriter Ribbons
(same quality) cost
only $5.50 to $10.00

Four major factors determine the quality of typewriter ribbons. 1: fabric, 2: ink, 3: method of inking, 4: equal and ample edge sizing.

Fabrics are graded according to "thread-count," which measures their fineness. This "thread-count" is the identifying base upon which your ribbons should be chosen. The higher the "thread-count," the finer the fabric... just as in a handkerchief or shirt, for instance.

Therefore, think of "handkerchiefs" or "shirts" when you buy typewriter ribbons. If you want a heavy-duty ribbon... select one with a low "thread-count"... 268 or less. This is the "utility handkerchief" or "work-shirt" quality.

On the other hand, if you want a ribbon in which clean, sharp "write" is more important than ruggedness... select a high "thread-count"... which is the finer "handkerchief" or "dress-shirt" quality—288, 295, 304 or 324 thread count.

KODYE provides Typewriter Ribbons in a variety of "thread-counts"... suited to varying requirements. Prices range as they do in handkerchiefs or shirts... "work-shirt" ribbons cost less than the "dress-shirt" kind because the fabric is less expensive.

Improved inks, advanced methods of inking and definite specification of thread count plus equal and ample edge sizing assure Randall KODYE users standardization of product... and standardized superior results.

So, ask your stationer today to show you the KODYE SELECTION CHART. From it, he can choose for you the exact KODYE ribbon best suited to the job you ask it to do... the particular KODYE ribbon that, because of Randall's manufacturing ingenuity, will give you quality equal to that of any other brand in the same "thread-count"... for LESS MONEY.

Buy KODYE ribbons today... in dozen lots and make an EXTRA SAVING.

ROBBERY SUSPECTS TO BE TRANSFERRED

Man, Wife Will Be Questioned in $29,500 Texas Mail Theft.

Transfer to Texas of a well-dressed man and woman arrested at the municipal airport Friday in connection with a $29,500 Texas mail robbery was ordered yesterday by United States District Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

The couple, listed as Sidney Miller, 30, and Helen Miller, 23, his wife, will be taken to Dallas by postal inspectors for questioning in connection with the mail robbery last November.

When arrested by Atlanta detectives ten minutes before the departure of their plane, the couple had $4,300 on their persons, M. H. Ackerman, postal inspector in charge, said.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller waived preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith and denied any connection with the crime. Miller said the money officers found on them "was not illegally obtained."

C. W. B. Long, postal inspector for the Fort Worth division, was in Atlanta to return the couple to Dallas. Time of departure was withheld by officials.

Ill Seven Years, 'Sunshine Girl' Gets Good News

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 31.—(P)—With a smile on her lips, a sparkle in her eye and a cheery note in her voice, Miss Polly Watts, 28, of Pelahatchie, Miss., has been fighting tuberculosis and complications for seven long years.

That's why she has been called "Mississippi's Sunshine Girl." Today her smile became brighter as she lay in her hospital bed and heard the news from doctors. She can be removed tomorrow to Sanatorium, Miss., for a few more months of treatment, they said, and when spring comes, she can go home.

"Home" looms large in her thoughts because of the long time she has been in hospitals, away from her parents and friends.

The amendment provides that $38,001.80 shall be subtracted from the original budget and set up as a reserve fund. A total of $18,001.80 was taken from salary accounts and $20,000 from non-salary accounts.

No provision is made in the budget for any salary increase. Thomas W. Clift, assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs, said.

The difficulty was technical, having to do with an expired visa which, according to United States regulations, had to be secured outside this country.

GEORGIA WPA ROLLS TO INCREASE 1,500

Officials Announce Addition of 82,500 Workers in 9 Southern States.

Georgia's Works Progress Administration rolls will be increased to 31,000 during February, putting on an additional 1,500 relief workers, WPA administrators announced yesterday in Washington.

WPA officials said they were preparing to increase its rolls by 82,500 during February in nine southern states because of seasonal layoffs and drops in private employment, according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington.

If all tentative quotas are filled in February, total WPA employment would be 1,914,461, compared with 1,831,961 employed on federal and state projects on January 22.

Funds available, however, would not permit continuation of such a heavy relief load, WPA officials added. Affected by the increase are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

According to ministry figures, Britain now has 2,031 first-line aircraft compared with 1,015 in May, 1935, when the huge air rearmament program started.

Constitution's 'Twin' Sends Greetings at 70

A prized birthday greeting to The Constitution, now in its 70th year, came a few days ago from Mrs. Bettie Fields Clure, of Dalton, self-styled "twin sister" of the "South's Standard Newspaper."

Mrs. Clure was born the same year The Constitution was established and as a child of seven, and again at 17, wrote contributions for The Constitution's Children's Corner. Recalling those years in her birthday greeting, she said: "I am now an experienced child of 70."

Mrs. Clure also recalled that her father, like many of his descendants, subscribed to The Constitution as his "state paper." The Christian Index, she said, was his church paper, and he took the county paper.

Since the death of her husband about 14 years ago, Mrs. Clure has been engaged actively in welfare work, and spent the last 10 years in Tennessee.

Foresees Upturn for Furniture Industry

A bright outlook for the furniture industry was pictured by Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture Association, at a dinner meeting of furniture men last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Rau, left, is shown as he was introduced by Clarence Haverly, regional vice president of the national association. The speaker said a boom in home building will bring about the business upturn.

Furniture Association Speaker Predicts Boom in Home-Building

Roscoe R. Rau Cites Housing Shortage, Says People Will Not Continue to Live in Crowded Quarters; Admits Buying Slump.

A general boom in home building is destined to bring an upturn in business for the furniture industry, Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture Association, predicted here last night.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of furniture men at the Atlanta Athletic Club, Rau said "with the new government housing program ahead of us, we may expect new furnishing for the new structures, and a resumption of business such as we have not seen in a decade."

A return to the home atmosphere—more appreciation for the home—will be largely responsible for the expected "golden age in home furnishings," he said.

Home-Building Program. "We have a home-building program ahead of us such as we have never seen before," Rau declared. "Right now we have a home shortage, and people are not going to continue to live in cramped quarters."

General business conditions during 1938 should be about the same as for 1936, the speaker said. The first six months of the year will fall about 20 per cent below the same period of 1937, he predicted.

Admitting that buying is now on a slump, he said 1937 was a satisfactory year from the standpoint of profit while there was much variation from the standpoint of volume.

Change in Style. The eighteenth century influence is gradually becoming more marked in furniture styles, the trend being away from the modern to the classical, Rau said.

The furniture executive came to the defense of the retailer by declaring that the retail margin is not too high although he said this argument is sometimes advanced by the sources of supply.

"This idea of squeezing the retailer is not a new one, nor is it an outgrowth of the New Deal, for we had it immediately after the World War."

Modernization Praised. Referring to the wage and hour bill, Rau said he did not believe the present session of congress would end without its passage.

"Many of these ideas of controlling wages and hours finally get down to the state legislatures, and everyone doing business in the state is affected," he pointed out. He praised the modernization

WITNESS ACCUSES FEDERAL ATTORNEY

Confidence Game's 'Steerer,' at Bunco Trial, Says Prosecutor Threatened Him.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(P)—A government witness in the federal suit to wreck an alleged multimillion-dollar Reno, Nev., bunco gang testified today an assistant United States attorney had threatened to bash his head in.

The witness, Cullen Friswold, alias Fred Walsinger, confessed "steerer" for confidence games, asserted W. Mahlon Dickerson, assistant United States attorney, had threatened him with bodily harm two weeks ago, before the present trial opened.

The naming of Dickerson came in answer to a question of Justice Willis Van Devanter, retired from the United States supreme court, presiding, who interrupted the examination of the witness by defense lawyers in order to propound his queries.

The "head-bashing" threat was first brought out by John A. Taaffe, of San Francisco, counsel for the defense of William J. Graham and James C. McKay, of Reno, who, with three others, are charged with mail fraud and conspiracy.

Under direct examination, Friswold testified that Graham, whom he pointed out in court, had paid to him and to other "con game" men $45,000 obtained from Mrs. Mayme C. Staley and her husband, of Wheeling, W. Va., in a horse race swindle. He has been under a three-year suspended sentence since 1935 in connection with the swindle. He testified his "cut" was $15,300.

SENATE OPPOSITION TO JACKSON WANES; APPROVAL FAVORED

Promotion To Be Solicitor General Recommended by Cummings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Senate hearings on the President's promotion of Robert H. Jackson, outspoken critic of "monopoly," to be solicitor general demonstrated principally today that opposition to confirmation was decreasing.

A judiciary subcommittee received from Attorney General Cummings a strong recommendation that Jackson's nomination be approved. There were some indications that the subcommittee might act favorably on the appointment without further hearings, and in fact, without hearing Jackson himself.

Two to Read Speeches. That depended, however, on decisions still to be made by Senators Austin, Republican, Vermont, and King, Democrat, Utah. Both intended to read Jackson's recent speeches (accusing capital, among other things, of going on strike to force a liquidation of the New Deal) and then determine whether they wanted to question him.

Otherwise, the attitude of the subcommittee was so evident that Chairman McGill, Democrat, Kansas, told reporters there was no doubt in his mind that at an early date, possibly tomorrow, it would vote to report the nomination favorably.

Unique Experience. In an atmosphere of comfortable informality, Cummings leaned back in a chair and told the committee that Jackson's experience as a government lawyer had been "not only extensive, but unique, highly successful and entirely satisfactory to the Department of Justice."

At present Jackson is assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division. Prior to that he prosecuted tax cases for the Internal Revenue Bureau. Nearly

Gladioli Gladden Camp on 4th Anniversary

United States District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp is shown above with the basket of roses and gladioli presented him by members of his staff on the completion of his first four-year term. President Roosevelt has nominated him for another term.

A year ago he was one of the principal witnesses before the senate judiciary committee on behalf of the President's court reorganization bill. He has been mentioned frequently as a possible successor to President Roosevelt.

In answer to many questions, Cummings said repeatedly that the promotion from assistant attorney general to solicitor general would remove Jackson from any connection with the initiation of litigation and confine his activities to preparing appeals and arguing government cases before the supreme court.

His proposals, made in an address before the Carolina Political Union, a non-partisan organization of University of North Carolina students, included:

1. Recognition of the principle of collective bargaining;
2. Recognition of the right of employees to join or reject any organization without coercion from any source;
3. Recognition that co-operation between workers and management, and understanding of each other's problems, are essential;
4. Legislation which will protect the rights of both employees and employer.

Girdler laid special emphasis on the necessity of regulating union activity. It was because of the "irresponsible" leadership of the Committee for Industrial Organization, he asserted, that he refused to sign a union contract in the famous "little steel" strike last year.

Girdler Lists 4 Peace Points Of Capital, Labor

CHAPL HILL, N. C., Jan. 31.

(UP)—Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the board of Republic Steel Corporation and outspoken opponent of the CIO, tonight listed four points upon which he said any enduring peace between capital and labor must be based.

His proposals, made in an address before the Carolina Political Union, a non-partisan organization of University of North Carolina students, included:

1. Recognition of the principle of collective bargaining;
2. Recognition of the right of employees to join or reject any organization without coercion from any source;
3. Recognition that co-operation between workers and management, and understanding of each other's problems, are essential;
4. Legislation which will protect the rights of both employees and employer.

Girdler laid special emphasis on the necessity of regulating union activity. It was because of the "irresponsible" leadership of the Committee for Industrial Organization, he asserted, that he refused to sign a union contract in the famous "little steel" strike last year.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ENDS 4-YEAR TERM

Roosevelt's Renomination of Lawrence Camp Awaits Senate Action.

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp yesterday observed his fourth anniversary as attorney for the northern district of Georgia by pointing to the record his office has made in cleaning up the court calendar.

Camp began his four-year term with a large docket of untried cases facing him. In January, 1934, there were 449 criminal cases pending and 236 civil cases to which the government was a party awaiting trial.

Yesterday there were 163 criminal cases and 84 civil cases untried. Only two defendants are in prison awaiting trial, Camp said. When Camp arrived at his office yesterday, he found a large basket of roses and white gladioli on his desk as a present from members of his staff. Camp was recently nominated for another four-year term by President Roosevelt and the nomination now awaits senate confirmation.

deliberately murdered the couple. Introduction of Dr. Huggins' deposition, with those of two physicians, came after a five-day battle on the part of the defense.

Testimony that for days after Wright shot the couple he could not remember details of the tragedy was given at his murder trial today.

Dr. Charles H. Cowan testified he visited Wright's jail cell several times and that Wright continually repeated:

"Found Her Cheating."

"I found my wife cheating and I guess I went nuts. I'm trying to figure out what happened."

The state charges the killing was deliberate and premeditated. Giesler introduced testimony intended to show that the shooting was done in a fit of jealous anger.

William Thompson, manager of the Union air terminal ticket office, testified Wright, former airport manager and Kimmel always seemed "very friendly." He said he was at a party in the Wright home about a week before the slaying, a party which Kimmel and his wife also attended.

Wright never showed any signs of temper, the witness said. He frequently worried about financial matters.

A federal aeronautical inspector, James Reed, said that "three or four times" Wright had asked him to accompany him home from meetings of a group of aviation men.

Wright wanted him along to establish for his wife's benefit that he had been on a "strictly stag party," said Reed.

Reed also testified he had assisted Wright in making plans for taking his wife to Boulder Dam on a vacation trip. Wright's vacation began the day before the tragedy.

Told About Operation. Oscar Wilkinson, airport auditor, testified Wright had told him about an operation he underwent, but when Giesler asked him to relate the conversation concerning it, S. Ernest Roll, prosecutor, stymied him with a successful objection.

Giesler said tonight he expected to put Wright on the stand tomorrow morning, to tell his story of finding his 29-year-old wife and Kimmel, 32, in an embrace under unusual circumstances on a piano bench at the Wright home at 4 a. m. November 9.

Giesler said he had only a few more witnesses for brief testimony and hoped to conclude the defense's direct testimony by tomorrow night or Wednesday noon.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES SELF IN SHOOTING

Clerk Tells of Riding With U. S. Attorney Before Shot Fired by Panhandler.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Mrs. Elisabeth Connor Buchanan, a law clerk at the Justice Department, identified herself today as the woman who had accompanied Russell Hardy on an automobile ride before Hardy was shot Saturday night.

In a statement to reporters, she said the situation was "commonplace and unremarkable" and that there was "not the slightest reason to be secretive."

Hardy, a special assistant attorney general, is convalescing in a Washington hospital from a flesh wound in the hip. Police said he told them that a woman attorney from New York had been with him prior to the shooting. Hardy said he was shot by a panhandler after he had refused to give him money.

He is married, and his wife visited him at the hospital after the shooting.

Mrs. Buchanan, widow of an army officer, said she and Hardy had worked on a Department of Justice matter most of Saturday afternoon and that he had offered to drive her home. They decided, however, to "take a short drive out the Mount Vernon Memorial highway."

On the return trip, she said, she asked Hardy to stop at the George Mason hotel in Alexandria for a few minutes. She said she went to the dressing room, and that Hardy met her in the lobby a few minutes later.

"He told me that he had been held up and shot," she continued. "I wanted to go with him to the hospital but he became quite distressed and insisted that I return to my home."

FRANCE ENLARGES NAVAL PROGRAM

Danger To Maritime and Colonies Feared.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—(P)—The navy ministry disclosed today that France's 1938 naval building program was being enlarged as a result of the rapidly growing world armament race.

William Bertrand, minister of the navy, said he would place the new program before the cabinet at the earliest opportunity and recommend its approval.

"As soon as a decision is taken and the necessary appropriations voted," he declared, "we are in a position to swing immediately into action to re-establish our threatened naval position."

The present program, calling for 58,000 tons of new fighting ships to cost 4,460,000,000 francs ($144,000,000), was described by the navy minister as risking "irremediable compromise" for France's maritime and colonial interests.

A massed squadron of 15 army planes, on a 4,600-mile flight across 16 states will descend upon Atlanta, probably Wednesday, as part of a government test calculated to familiarize the 27th pursuit squadron with new commerce department navigation facilities, refueling and maintenance without the aid of any personnel. All the planes are single-seaters and carry no mechanics.

The flight will take seven days and in the 16 states to be covered all kinds of weather conditions are expected to be encountered, according to Major Willis R. Taylor, in command of the flight.

The army planes will come to Atlanta from Montgomery, Ala. They take off this morning from Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Two city detectives were "cast" yesterday night there was no answer. Car 187 was stolen Sunday night from the alley alongside the police station on Decatur street where they had parked it for a few minutes.

The detectives, R. T. Denny and R. R. Bradford, reporting the car stolen yesterday, said when they returned for the car it was gone.

First Lady Keeps Hair Long So Hat Won't Blow Off

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt gave a practical reason today for keeping her hair long.

"She needs a knot, she explained, to anchor her hat when she rides with the President in open cars. 'I can't imagine anything that would annoy people more than to have to stop a procession to pick up Mrs. Roosevelt's hat,' she told her press conference.

Mrs. Roosevelt's hair is shoulder length in the back, and thick enough for a sturdy knot. In the front she wears it shorter and last week had half an inch cut off either side "to make it more convenient to comb."

Asked if the President has expressed an opinion about bobbed hair for her, the first lady said she did not think he would know whether she wore it long or short.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she had decided against letting her portrait be added to those of other first ladies now hanging in the White House.

"I have no desire to be perpetuated in the White House," she told reporters, "or anywhere."

She added that she never sat for a portrait and never would, if she could avoid it.

NATIONS ATTACK LEAGUE SANCTIONS

Switzerland, The Netherlands Lead Request To Abandon System.

GENEVA, Jan. 31.—(P)—Representatives of small nations today called upon the League of Nations to abandon its system of obligatory sanctions—the economic weapon by which members originally had hoped to curb warring powers and enforce collective security.

The long-expected attack on sanctions, embodied in article XVI of the League covenant, was led by delegates from Switzerland, Sweden and The Netherlands.

They urged the committee on covenant revision to recognize officially that the League should, and could no longer wield such punitive power.

With three major powers, Germany, Japan and Italy, now out of the League, opinion has been growing that future invocation of sanctions would be not only ineffective, but dangerous.

STRUCTURAL FAILURE IS CAUSE OF AIR CRASH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—A Bureau of Air Commerce inquiry board decided today that a structural failure due to intense vibration probably caused the crash on a Northwest Airlines plane January 10 at Bozeman, Mont., killing 10 persons.

Exonerating the pilot, the board held that a failure in the "upper vertical fins and rudders" because of a "flutter" probably threw the plane out of control during turbulent air disturbances.

PATRONS OF SCHOOL BACK COACH IN LOVE

Demand Man, Whose Ouster Caused Pupils To Strike, Be Reinstated.

DOTHAN, Ala., Jan. 31.—(P)—Staid patrons of rural, strike-closed Rehobeth school espoused the cause of Dan Cupid today and demanded that Hugh A. Wynn be reinstated as teacher-coach or that a "reasonable cause" for dismissal be given him.

Wynn's resignation was requested by school authorities—reportedly for having dates with girl students.

The young coach, graduate of the University of Alabama, said he was engaged to 18-year-old Mary Grubbs, member of the senior class, but denied having dates with other schoolgirls. He set forth that school officials knew Miss Grubbs was his fiancée.

Sentiment of the parents was on the side of romance today as they, in effect backed action of the students in staging a sympathy strike which led to closing of the school last week.

As school patrons rebuffed the constituted authorities and gave support to young love, Wynn stood at the rear of the auditorium. At the opposite side of the room his pretty brunette fiancée listened to the discussion.

They did not speak.

HER EXPERIENCE WAS WONDERFUL
Says Mrs. Youngblood, Who Has Lived All Her Life Here in Atlanta.

A beloved member of the Northwest Baptist church and of the Bankhead Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Buena Youngblood, 984 Tilden avenue, N. W., recently went into Lyons Pharmacy, 745 Marietta street, and said, "I can not understand why some people object to receiving advice on how to take care of colds and coughs. When I had that bad cold, many of my friends told me that Menthon-Mulsion was the best cough medicine. I took their advice and bought a bottle of Menthon-Mulsion and within four or five days my cough had entirely disappeared and in a day or two my cold was completely gone. I am very well satisfied with Menthon-Mulsion, and it is certainly worth the 75c I paid for it, and am glad to recommend it to my friends and I always keep a bottle in my home."—(adv.)

HE SELLS TOBACCO TO THEM ALL

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies...

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "Lucky Strike buyers know what tobacco they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it."

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for over five years now."

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Pre-Cherokee Indian Relics Shown at the Capitol

Here is a view of the Indian relic exhibit now on display in the state capitol at the State Museum of Natural Resources, showing Miss Annette McLain, state curator, examining the articles. On the right is a clay dog effigy which is one of five like it in the United States. Three of the five were found in Bull Creek cemetery, three miles from Columbus, Ga. Geologists say the pitcher was used by a race of Indians that were evidently driven from this country by the Cherokees, as the latter race disclaims the article as having been made by their ancestors. Next to it is a green stone peach pipe shaped like a dove. The big bowl is a burial pot in which the ancient race buried the bones of its dead. The little idol is a water pitcher made from the clay, while the idol next to Miss McLain is the deity of a nomad race of Indians who lived in the collection of Colonel Lewis Tumlin in 1859 and it is not known when the idol, which had unformed legs and represents a woman, was found. Pieces of pottery in the foreground were taken from other Indian mounds. This collection is said to be best in the state.

STOLEN CAR-CRASH ENDS 7-MILE CHASE

Driver Flees But Passenger Is Seized After Auto Hits Power Pole.

A stolen automobile crashed into a power pole and one of its occupants was captured yesterday after a seven-mile chase by county police through the Little Five Points district. The driver escaped but Police-man S. D. Vaughan and Fred Wray captured a companion, Lamar Minor. The suspect was lodged in Fulton tower on charges of automobile larceny after police learned the wrecked car was stolen Thursday night from W. F. Ferguson, of 1145 Euclid avenue.

The chase started when the policeman spotted the car at Lake avenue and Elizabeth street and recognized it as one which a police broadcast described as leaving a filling station without paying for gasoline.

At Fair street and Moreland avenue the fleeing car struck a parked automobile, but continued on Fair street. Unable to make the turn at Flat Shoals avenue at high speed, the car left the road and struck a power pole. Minor was stunned by the crash. He suffered deep lacerations of the face and scalp.

TRADE ILLS CAUSE OFFERED BY IOWAN Cites Four Reasons for Business Instability.

Business today is less stable than it was a century ago because of its growing complexity, despite its greatly increased productivity, according to Professor George R. Davies of the University of Iowa bureau of business research at Iowa City. He cites four causes for the instability:

1. Development of centralized labor markets. When business is very active, the bidding for labor may raise wages to a point that encroaches upon profits.

2. The modern system of banker's banking. The operation of banker's banks, exemplified by the federal reserve institutions, multiplies this source of instability, with "control" placed in the hands of persons infallible neither in judgment nor action.

3. The so-called "principle of acceleration." This causes uneconomical over-expansion in certain industries, with resulting general loss of confidence.

PAY RIDER OPPOSED BY CIVIL SERVICE Commission Hits Limit on Career Employees.

Opposition to a United States senate amendment to the independent offices appropriation bill for 1939, providing no part of any appropriation contained in the act be used to pay an employee making more than $4,000 per year unless appointed by the President with consent of the senate, was expressed yesterday by the United States Civil Service Commission. "This proposal is in direct opposition to the stated beliefs of the President of the United States," the statement issued by the commission read. "The President has previously termed such legislation regrettable and unfortunate. If enacted, the opportunity of American citizens to look forward to advancement in the government service to positions of merit and experience, such as has been hoped for under the civil service law, would be frustrated."

BOY HIT BY AUTO DIES IN AUGUSTA HOSPITAL

AUGUSTA, Jan. 31.—(P)—Robert Chance Jr., 5, died today of injuries received yesterday when he fell from his parent's automobile into the path of another car eight miles from Waynesboro, Ga., toward Augusta.

Hempstead Pays Alimony Arrears And Avoids Jail

Frank Hempstead, Atlanta public accountant, ordered to jail until he paid $2,100 in back alimony, was released soon after his trial yesterday when he paid the money.

He had testified before Fulton Superior Judge John D. Humphries that he did not have the required amount. He said he had paid $5,000 in alimony during the two years since his divorce from the plaintiff, Mrs. Bessie Pope Hempstead, but had been unable to pay the balance at $275 a month.

He also claimed that a previous divorce Mrs. Hempstead obtained in Reno, Nev., was illegal and that he therefore never had been married to her.

Judge Humphries ruled that testimony showed that the defendant was in good financial condition and that he could not raise the question of the previous divorce, as he had not raised it at the time of his divorce from Mrs. Hempstead.

FARM BILL ACCORD IS EXPECTED TODAY

Dispute Over Awarding Cotton Acreage Delays Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—A dispute about the method of awarding acreage to cotton farmers delayed agreement today on the administration's "ever-normal granary" program.

Members of the joint congressional committee which has spent five weeks trying to write a single bill from the separate granary measures passed by the house and senate last year, said they expected to reach a compromise tomorrow.

They said this was the only major point delaying agreement on the program for controlling production and marketing of cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and rice by a system of benefit payments, loans, and penalties on excess sales.

TEXAN ADDRESSES WORLD LINT CONGRESS
CAIRO, Jan. 31.—(P)—Dr. A. B. Cox, of the University of Texas, today told the World Cotton Congress United States cotton production has in nowise reached capacity.

In a paper on the future of United States cotton exports, Cox said the poor quality of American cotton in recent years had been due largely to unfavorable weather conditions.

RED CROSS RELIEF FOR CHINESE GROWS

National Chairman Urges Further Co-operation.

Reports from Red Cross chapters in many sections of the country indicate that the Chinese relief fund is receiving favorable response, according to Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national Red Cross chairman.

There is, however, a great need for more funds, he said. Winter weather is bitterly cold in China at the present time, and many families are clothed only in the thinnest rags. Many children have been deserted by their starving parents and left on the streets in hope that relief agencies will care for them," the chairman asserted.

Ministers and other leaders in Atlanta have expressed their desire to co-operate in raising the fund, General J. H. Reeves, secretary, said. Atlantans wishing to help are asked to send their contributions to the Red Cross office on Luckie street.

TAX CUT SOUGHT BY WOMAN'S CLUB

Council Committee Delays Action on Petition.

An Atlanta Woman's Club delegation petitioned city council's tax committee yesterday to accept $300 in payment of taxes on the club's property for 1937.

Action was delayed until the next regular meeting of the committee. Ad valorem taxes on the property amount to approximately $300, Ed A. Gilliam, chairman, said.

The petition explained that the numerous activities sponsored by the woman's organization will be seriously affected unless the taxes are reduced.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 1, 1938.

A CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM

Announced objectives of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for the year, as listed by President Charles F. Palmer, include proposals which, if successfully prosecuted, will bring material advantages to all local business and to every citizen of the community.

Continued improvements in the police department, a follow-through on the survey of city and county government, being completed by Dr. Thomas H. Reed and the encouragement of businessmen to run for public office are the main features of the program.

The third item mentioned, the encouragement of business men candidates for office, offers far-reaching potentialities for good.

Many public officeholders today are good business men, as they have demonstrated by the things they have done for the city and county. It is, however, true that there is usually a wide divergence of type between the professional politician and the successful business man.

Generally speaking business leaders have been reluctant to actively canvass for election to public office. Almost invariably such candidacy involves heavy sacrifice. The business man is forced to neglect his private affairs and, whether elected or not, he is apt to suffer in his business activity from rivalries and enmities engendered in the heat of political campaign.

At the same time the election of conservative, intelligent business men to positions of important public trust serves to advance the cause of good government and to protect the people's welfare as a whole.

If it does nothing else it reveals, gratifyingly, that the idea of "big business" as something reprehensible is an imaginary bugaboo, and shows to the average man or woman the truth that upon the honest conduct of business and the affairs of the community depends the prosperity and the comfort of us all.

A good business man who brings good business practices to public life is the most valuable public servant the people can find.

"NO PRISONERS"

A Japanese report on war activities in China, in telling of one battle, said 2,000 Chinese were left dead upon the field, adding, "The Japanese took no prisoners." Further in the report, the explanation is made that the Chinese fighters were without uniforms and thus "had lost their status as soldiers and had become snipers to be shot on sight."

It is an ancient rule of warfare that the combatant without uniform is subject to execution immediately upon capture. It is argued that an invading army, without such a rule, would be unable to protect itself against continued attrition from the civilian population of the occupied territory.

Yet, under modern practices of battle, it imposes a hideous penalty upon such fighters as the Chinese who are locked in a desperate struggle to defend their country from a ruthless attacker.

The Japanese have made no distinction between combatants and civilians when they showered shells and bombs upon their enemy. They have blotted out of existence, in a holocaust of rending steel, Chinese soldiers, civilians, women, children alike.

Only a comparatively small proportion of the Chinese army boasts uniforms of any description. Many of their divisions are made up of the armies of former war lords and bandit chieftains, recruited from roving bands who know nothing of modern soldiery, uniforms and drills.

Thus such fighters, if they would defend their own country, must do so with their lives in pawn. They have no uniforms, can secure none. They fight, inevitably, with the certain death of "no quarter" if they fall into enemy hands.

Yet, if they do not fight, they can find no safety as civilians. It is but a small choice, to sacrifice themselves as sheep or to die as fighting men. The Japanese are demonstrating, to all the world, a forceful example of man's inhumanity to man.

"The Japanese took no prisoners."

As even the soundest judges of boxing form never know if he's coming or going, we are adding James J. Braddock to the traffic problems.

"As soon as Britain rears," says Lloyd

George, "it will take no more back talk." This the answer to the old one, "Are we mice or are we men?" is that it all depends.

ANOTHER GOOD MAN

The election of Paul D. MacQuiston as president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association adds to a lengthening roster of Atlanta leaders another name which carries along the tradition of outstanding civic service which has ever been associated with the officials of that body.

Mr. MacQuiston is one of the outstanding retail executives of the southeast, a man who has revealed not only splendid business leadership, but a civic consciousness that dictates participation in everything for the good of his home community.

He succeeds A. E. Foster, who has made the association one of its finest executives. It is always difficult to follow a good man in office and, in following Mr. Foster, the new president follows one of the best.

Yet in Mr. MacQuiston the association has found a man who will not hesitate at the magnitude of any task, but will rather receive inspiration from the high standards of service set by his predecessor and enthusiasm from the program to be carried on.

The Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association is a group that has proven not only its value to the business houses it represents, but at all times has been in the forefront of all movements for the benefit of the city as a whole. It is a prized civic asset and will become even more valuable under the leadership of such a man as President MacQuiston.

YOUTH BRINGS IDEALS

The junior section of the Florida State Bar Association, in a recent statement, demands stricter rules for admission to the practice of law in their state, as well as for disbarment and the control of unauthorized practices.

The young lawyers, approximately one-third of the state association, pointed out that it was unfair to a young lawyer, just starting practice after a long and expensive period of education for his profession, to be exposed to the competition of "ambulance chasers." They added that, if unethical methods are permitted without restraint, the young beginners in the profession will be forced to copy such habits in the fight for survival of the fittest.

This attitude on the part of the young men in an ancient and honorable, though oft-times abused, profession adds one more influence to the steady improvement in the ethical conduct of professional and business men when dealing with their fellows. It brings a reinforcement for those older men of the bar who have fought throughout their careers to maintain the highest standards.

When a young man starts upon his career inspired with the finest ideals of professional honesty there is always a feeling of gratitude on the part of the older practitioners. For from youth come the ideals which have, perhaps, become worn and half-forgotten in the hearts of older men, made weary by long contact with a rough world. Young men are ever the most enthusiastic and impetuous crusaders for the right. Let them continue to try to transform into reality the dreams of their clean young souls, and the world will steadily become a better place in which to live.

PENTAMETHYLENTETRAZOL

Records at the Georgia Baptist hospital in Atlanta reveal remarkable successes from the use of a recently discovered drug in cases of mental disease. While there has not yet been sufficient elapsed time since the apparent cures to determine if the good effects are permanent, more than 150 patients have been treated in this city since September, with no fatalities, and cures in many instances.

The drug is known in this country as pentamethylentetrazol, or in Europe more simply as caridazol.

According to a prominent psychiatrist, the drug achieves its cures by dilating the blood vessels of the brain, permitting more oxygen to get to the brain and thus clearing up disturbances there which cause mental disease.

If these early experiences in the use of this drug prove to be permanent cures, the world has discovered something which will have far-reaching effect upon the entire social system.

Such an ability to cure mental diseases would result in a decrease in crime, a rapid shrinkage in the population of hospitals for the insane and a general easing of the heavy burden now imposed upon society by the mentally sick.

Dementia praecox, one of the worst and most pitiful forms of insanity, seems peculiarly susceptible to the new drug. This disease strides indiscriminately, but usually claims its patients from youth of the well-to-do classes. The victims are helpless against its onslaught, and are not morally responsible for their actions.

One important warning in connection with the use of the newly found drug, is that it should never be administered except by a fully qualified psychiatrist. Otherwise the effects may be even worse than the disease it is intended to cure.

Editorial of the Day

WOMEN'S LEADERS
(From the Los Angeles Times.)

No doubt can be left in anyone's mind regarding the scope of women's activities in the United States after noting the list of ten outstanding feminine leaders for 1937. Every line of endeavor is represented, from banking and swimming to acting and writing.

Carrie Chapman Catt is put at the head of the list by American Women, the selecting publication, possibly on account of her vigor and spectacular tactics. Inclusion of both Lynn Fontanne and Myrna Loy gives the thespian art a lead over any other profession. It is only fitting that the "typical American mother of 1937," Mrs. Carl Gray, is included high up in the group. Homemaking evidently is regarded as an honorable, eagerly, with his package, from the car.

America as a nation can be proud of this representative ten. No other nation could match it.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

ICKES-WEST FEUD WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes' recent furious descent on the office force of his subordinate, Undersecretary Charles West, was the funniest and most fantastic bureaucratic tantrum seen in Washington for many a long year.

It may seem a little odd that the sudden infuriated removal by one responsible official of the entire staff of another responsible official should have its origin in a senate investigation of still a third responsible official. But that seems to be the fact.

At the moment, the senate committee on public lands is looking into the qualifications of Mr. Ickes' man Friday, Ebert K. Burlew, to be assistant secretary of the interior. The investigation is being conducted by Senator Key Pittman, who has a long-standing quarrel with Mr. Ickes about Interior's method of handling public grazing lands in Nevada. Senator Pittman is not letting the investigation stop at Mr. Burlew.

His intention is, if possible, to lay by the heels both the master and the man, both Ickes and Burlew at once. Already there have been revelations of strange goings-on in Interior, of extensive wire-tapping, of costly but imaginary CCC camps, and the like.

SUSPICIONS OF MR. ICKES From the start, Mr. Ickes has exhibited remarkable signs of deep concern over the investigation. He has pulled every possible wire to quash it, going so far as to plead not only with Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, but with Republican bigwigs as well. He has cried out that there was a campaign to "smear" him. But he has not succeeded in calling Senator Pittman off.

He has done everything in his power (with the help, it is said, of his large force of Interior Department detectives) to discover the origin of the documents in Senator Pittman's brief case. And now it is understood that he blames Undersecretary West, with whom he also has a long-standing quarrel, for supplying the senator with some of the papers.

Actually, Undersecretary West is not an official of the Interior Department at all. He is a member of the President's personal staff, with the lobbying of administration measures through congress as his special province.

Nevertheless, on Friday of last week, when Mr. West was not in town, Mr. Ickes telephoned James A. Roher, personal assistant to Mr. West, to come to see him in his office. Since there has been no detailed account of the scene between Mr. Ickes and Mr. Roher, it may be excusable to supply one at this late date.

A BAD QUARTER-HOUR When Mr. Roher, a large, mild-mannered, gentle-seeming man, entered the presence, he found Mr. Ickes popping with rage for no very obvious reason. No sooner had he appeared than Mr. Ickes asked him how many people were working in Mr. West's office. Mr. Roher replied that besides himself there were three stenographers and a messenger. Mr. Ickes grunted, and demanded to know when the last Interior Department papers had passed through Mr. West's office.

Mr. Roher replied that, as Mr. Ickes ought to know, Mr. West had been away more or less continuously since Jackson Day, so that no department business had been done in the West office since then. Thereupon Mr. Ickes snapped out that Interior kept no cats which caught no mice, and ordered the transfer to other divisions of the Interior of all but one of the stenographers. Then, glaring at Mr. Roher, he went on:

"As for you, after 4:30 this afternoon, we will have no further use for your services. Please collect your personal belongings at once and get out immediately. Nor do we want to see you 'round here again."

After this extraordinary outburst, Mr. Roher had some difficulty containing his own feelings. He mastered himself, however, and left the presence again with as good a grace as he could muster.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE At present, Mr. West is biding his time. Within a day or so, of course, it is not there already.

And there is where the real puzzle of the comedy is to be found. It seems perfectly incredible that the President could have permitted Mr. Ickes to offer his personal assistant, a man who had served him well and faithfully, so public and insolent an affront. At the same time, it seems equally incredible that even the daring and impulsive Mr. Ickes could have done such a thing without some intimation of where the President would stand.

Mr. West's position is probably somewhat weakened by the fact that his work on the Hill is less important this session than last. House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, although a good friend of Mr. West's, was deeply irritated last session by the multiplicity of private White House agents on the Hill. He made strong representations to the White House, demanding that all administration business pass through his hands and his alone.

The disaster of the court bill convinced the President that there was something in the Rayburn argument. The results were that Mr. Rayburn was promised what he asked, regular Monday morning White House conferences of leaders were instituted, and Mr. West's duties were cut down. Nevertheless, Mr. West is believed to stand well with the President still.

Reserve

A Seat For Me.

A most pleasant individual has called on me. He is a dark man, of the negro race. Publicity agent for Tuskegee Institute.

We had an entertaining amount of chatter, in which he told me of a lot of plans that institution has for the benefit of his race. Good plans that ought to be promoted, too.

Then he told me he was in the city to arrange for a concert here by the Tuskegee Glee Club. Contracts haven't been signed yet, he said, but it will probably be in the new city auditorium after the first work there is completed.

Hurry that work, please, and reserve me seats for self and family. That's one attraction that mustn't be missed.

Boomerang

On a Smart Guy.

Here's a little yarn that tickled my risibilities exceptionally.

This Atlanta was driving through the country, alone in his car. On the highway he overtook a pedestrian, walking stolidly along with a large, square package in his arms. The Atlanta, good hearted, stopped and invited the hiker to ride. The invitation was accepted.

The fellow climbed into the front seat and carefully placed his package on his knees.

Now the Atlanta is not the most careful driver in the world. Soon he took a curve at a speed a little too fast for complete assurance and he noticed that his passenger squirmed as though nervous.

So, like some folks will, the Atlanta mischievously decided to give the nervous stranger something to worry over. He stepped on the gas and for the rest of the journey they dodged and dodged the screaming auto curves like a fire truck on the way to the fire station where a championship game of checkers is waiting on the driver.

The Atlanta drove up, with a screech of brakes, to the curb at his destination. His passenger, who had not spoken during the trip, sighed gratefully as he stepped gingerly, with his package, from the car.

"Sure glad we got here safely," said the stranger, "with this package of dynamite!"

The Lost Outpost Of Dignity.

Here is an editorial from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, requiring no comment:

"Scions of New York's Astors, Morgans and Vanderbilts may gyrate in the intricacies of the 'Big Apple,' but New York's butlers to the Astors, Morgans and Vanderbilts will have none of it. Gentlemen's gentlemen and ladies' maids, who recently attended the fifth annual butlers' ball, felt the new dance craze too undignified to attempt. They did not ban it, but in society's upper strata a lifted eyebrow or glacial stare is always sufficient. Who would know that better than the impeccable brotherhood of Jeeves? Jazz opera may blare from the Metropolitan stage and swing music lift lilting jeers in sacrosanct Carnegie Hall, but the butlers of our Gothamite 400 in staunch, untrifled propriety stand guard over the last defenses of decorum. Hilarity and revel may be stifled in rigor mortis at the butlers' hop, but here is one fraternity that runs refreshingly true to form. They out-post the celebrated Emily. A stern race of men, they may let down their chins over a cup of sack in the pantry, but they would never let down their public bearing. A hair breadth from the path of social rectitude. We admire them tremendously. The 'Big Apple' is too tough for lots of us."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Saturday, February 1, 1913:

"Benjamin Beasley Hardin, 62, of Washington, Ga., Wilkes county, came to town Friday. He owns 1,000 fertile acres and they call him the King of Cotton. He carries with him, everywhere he goes, a heavy walking cane. From tip to handle it is embedded with $20 gold pieces, and gold coins of smaller denominations. Four dollars he handles the cane. It is valued at more than $4,000. He wears a belt made of leather and ivory and ornamented with $20 gold pieces, amounting to $1,000 or more. His watch fob is made of $20 gold pieces and is worth $300."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Wednesday, February 1, 1888:

"Senator Ingalls says he will put the District of Columbia prohibitionists to a test. He says he is tired of seeing men talk prohibition all day and drink champagne all night."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Spelvins' NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Last summer George Spelvin decided to get away from it all and therefore rented a little place in the country and moved up, taking along Emma, the colored woman, who fluffs up the pillows and runs the vacuum and does the cooking in the Spelvins' love nest in town, to do the same up there. They had a good time, slept well to the music of the crickets, saw several rabbits and, they hope, a deer, although it might have been a neighbor's Great Dane, and returned to town for the fray, as Dale Carnegie might say.

There had been no mishap to mar their enjoyment of the woods and fields except one almost forgotten incident last July when Emma, on her day off, went out to gather some wild flowers, slipped on a rock, grabbed a maple sapling to save herself from falling, and sprained her thumb.

Neither Emma nor the Spelvins gave it another thought until a short time before Thanksgiving, when Mr. Spelvin received a large and formidable official form from the State Industrial Commission and a letter calling him to time for failure to report an industrial accident on his place. The form had dozens of blanks to be filled in.

Day of Mishap On the day of the mishap to Emma he had failed to make proper notification to the Department of Labor, a neglect of serious view, and would he see section G, paragraph 4, sub-section (A), relating to penalties for failure to comply with the provisions of the workmen's compensation act? What was the cause of the accident on his premises? Structural defect? Mechanical breakdown? Explosion? Were all the injured given immediate first aid?

Mr. Spelvin saw that there was a little misapprehension, and, after consulting Emma, who had completely forgotten her sprained thumb, threw aside the form and wrote the commission a letter, stating, in effect, "Cook sprained thumb picking wild flowers on day off. No explosion. No fire. No dead."

Other forms arrived and Mr. Spelvin ignored them until a couple of weeks ago, when he received a rather nasty letter and another form. The letter warned him not to trifle with the workmen's compensation law.

Mr. Spelvin lost his temper and wrote in enormous printed letters on the form in that space reserved for general remarks: "Cook sprained thumb picking wild flowers on day off."

Clever He thought he had been rather clever in his sarcasm, but last week there comes to him another communication from the commission. He is summoned to appear at a hearing at 10 a. m. in room 1322 of the Labor Department.

At this point Mr. Spelvin thought he would call up somebody, phone book, got the number of the commission, and told the girl on the switchboard that he wanted to discuss the industrial accident with someone who had sufficient grasp and authority to advise him well. She said, "Wait a minute," and presently a man's voice said, "Hello, what's your trouble?"

"My cook," said Mr. Spelvin, "last summer she sprained her thumb picking wild flowers on her day off. No explosion. No lathes or unbalanced wheels or levers. Just wild flowers on her day off. Slipped and sprained her thumb. Now I am summoned to a hearing with all books, papers and records and witnesses. Can you advise me?"

"Oh, don't pay no attention to it," the man said.

"But they say I can be fined and imprisoned," Mr. Spelvin said.

"Don't pay no attention," said the man. "It's only a matter of form. Just don't pay no attention. Just ignore it. It's, you know, it's the law."

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

WAFFLES.

The Edwin Prestons entertained our Sunday school cabinet one of those cold nights the past week—an ideal night for waffles—and Mr. Preston bravely and bountifully provided a menu of waffles and bacon and sausage and syrup (Georgia cane, too), and jelly and coffee and baked custard. Man, man!

Have you ever been asked to define a waffle? Mr. Webster defines it, once, but he said that it was impossible, so he reached over and got a period and asked for another waffle. He got this far in his effort, "A soft but crisp indented batter cake cooked in a waffle iron." I don't imagine Noah Webster was satisfied with it if he ever had a real waffle—waffles like the Prestons served the other night. You can't any more define a waffle than you can define a sunset—different sort of things, to be sure, but equally difficult to define and equally precious when available.

But even better than the waffles, I dare to say, was the after-dinner talk of Dr. John R. Sampey, of Louisville, Ky., president of the Southern Baptist convention, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, 50 years a teacher, 50 years an author, 50 years a country preacher and pastor—marvelous man of God. Other honor guests were Dr. J. E. Dillard and Miss Verda Von Hagen, of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Sampey talked about God—he always does. I had said something about our sense of loss at Dr. H. H. Hill's going to the Prestons to Rome to be associated with Shorter College—our sense of loss and our sense of gratitude for them here and there. Dr. Sampey took up the thought, speaking of God's will—God's will in leading His children—God's will in directing the Prestons from their great centers of usefulness as leaders of the Baptist young people of Georgia to become leaders in the Shorter community.

You Can't Be Obligated to Scratch

His Back if He Doesn't Scratch Yours

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

For the sake of illustration, let us suppose that you are a farmer. In the crossroads village nearest your farm are two merchants who have for sale almost everything you need and provide a market for much that you produce.

They compete for your trade, and each watches jealously to see that you don't favor the other.

Aware of this jealousy, and wishing to prevent bad feeling, you say to each of them: "I promise to treat each of you in all matters as well as I treat the other."

One Saturday you drive to town with a quantity of eggs, butter and fresh vegetables and stop at the first store to exchange your produce for overalls, shoes, coffee and sugar.

The merchant says he will be glad to sell you what you need, but he can't take your produce for he is overstocked.

So you drive on to the other store and there do your trading, whereupon the first merchant, discovering what you have done, accuses you of breaking your word and favoring his competitor.

How, then, do you answer him? If you have good sense, you say to him: "My friend, every agreement has two sides. I promised to be equally fair to both of you, and so I have been. I bought your competitor's goods on condition that he take my produce. If you expect to sell me your goods without taking my produce, you are not asking for the same treatment I gave him but for better treatment. And I didn't promise you that."

Consider now a graver matter. As law is what the judge says it is, regardless of what the statute says, so a treaty, which has the force of law, means whatever it is interpreted to mean. And Uncle Sam, being soft-hearted, sometimes accepts interpretations that help others at his expense.

In most of our treaties is the "most-favored nation" clause, which binds us to treat any particular nation as well as we treat any other. That is fair, if fairly interpreted, but observe how it works.

If we agree to buy cheap shoes from Czechoslovakia on condition that the Czechs buy automobiles from us, 17 other nations at once cry in chorus: "You promised to treat us as well as anybody, so now you must buy our cheap shoes whether we buy anything from you or not."

And we are simple enough to do it, which explains in part why we import over $400,000,000 worth of farm products while our own farmers go begging for a market.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Mr. Lloyd George Sums Up.

NEW YORK.—The war-time prime minister of England, Mr. David Lloyd George, has just had a few things to say about contemporary men and events. He paid Mussolini the compliment, for instance, of calling the Duce "the greatest bluffer of our time," who has "bluffed his way through with a very poor set of cards." You may be sure that there was not much space wasted in reproducing the Welsh wizard's appreciation of the Duce in the Italian press.

And then Mr. Lloyd George said something else, which if one keeps in mind the formidable armies of the dictatorship countries sounded paradoxical enough. He said: the democratic powers are still by far the stronger and they will always remain in a predominant position.

This is a word that should have been spoken long ago. For it is becoming absolutely ludicrous to see and to hear every second public speaker or writer telling us that democracy is on the run before the dictators, that France is trembling in its shoes, that England no longer knows how to keep her empire together and is just muddling along without a policy, without hope, but doing her utmost to toe the line indicated by Il Duce.

England Still Foremost Player.

The truth of the matter is that in what Pope Julius II once called "the world's game," England is still the best and the most subtle player and the most powerful player.

It is England which is driving Mussolini further and further along on the road of that ruinous policy of exhausting his country with armaments. Spectators are amazed and ask themselves

LODGE AND WAGNER IN ANGRY DISPUTE OVER HOUSING PAY

'Fascism' Charges New Yorker; Anti-Lynch Bill Is Sidetracked.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Tall, aristocratic Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Republican, Massachusetts, and portly Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, breathed fire at each other in the senate today, each accusing his opponent of going against the best interests of labor.

A long step toward Fascism would be taken, said Wagner, if the senate accepted Lodge's "prevaling wage" amendment to the Roosevelt housing bill. Whereupon Lodge, youthful grandson of a famous senate battler, declared the AFL was backing his amendment and that his opponents were thwarting the will of the senate.

Sidetrack Lynch Bill.
The senate turned to housing after it sidetracked temporarily the anti-lynching bill, subject of a filibuster for more than three weeks. The anti-lynching bill will be brought up again when the housing measure is cleared away, probably within the next few days.

Scene of the Mexican Border Disorders

Tacked on the housing bill when it went through the senate, the Lodge amendment would require all contractors to pay prevailing wages on housing projects covered by Federal Housing Administration insurance.

However, when a senate-house conference committee went to work on the housing bill (which is designed to stimulate a home-construction boom by cutting the down payments and financing costs) the Lodge amendment was deleted.

"Travesty" Says Lodge.
When the bill came back to the senate today for final approval, Lodge charged that the scrapping of his proposal was "a complete misrepresentation of the will of the elected representatives of the people—a travesty on representative government."

Livid of countenance, Wagner contended the amendment would largely nullify the purpose of the housing campaign and would hamper unions in their bargaining efforts. If the government ever attempts to fix all wages, he said, "we shall destroy unionism and free action, and we shall be right in Fascism. That's what Fascism is."

7 Years, 7 Children Georgians' Record

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Adams have established some sort of record, in fact they seem to have established several records.

This morning their seventh child was born at the Ware County hospital. Mother and child are doing nicely.

The eldest of the seven children is seven years old, and there are no twins, triplets, quadruplets or quintuplets. They are all single.

Four of the children were born in January, two on January 6. Prior to the arrival of the baby girl this morning, the last two youngsters had been boys, and were named Tom and Dick.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams agreed if the next child were a boy, he would be named Harry, but it was a girl. She was named Harriett.

15 LOW FORECAST; COLDEST FOR 1938

Break Not Expected Before Thursday; Skies Will Be Cloudy Today.

Winter's severest attack since early December will strike Atlanta this morning, tumbling the mercury to 15 degrees with partly cloudy skies hovering overhead throughout the day, the weatherman predicted last night.

Twice before this winter the mercury has dropped lower, once to 9 degrees and once to 13 degrees. Both low recordings were registered in December.

"A wave of bitter cold is moving rapidly on Atlanta from the northwest and the brunt of the attack should be felt Tuesday morning," the forecaster said. "There will be no snow. The cold will continue through Wednesday with warmer temperatures coming about Thursday."

The weatherman said temperatures on the west coast were considerably warmer yesterday and this warmth should move eastward sufficiently fast to prevent the present cold remaining more than two or three days.

After a balmy Sunday, temperatures started steadily downward shortly after midnight yesterday and continued except for a short respite between 6 and 8 o'clock and about noon.

Warmest temperatures for yesterday were recorded at 56 degrees about midnight, but for the 24-hour period beginning at 6 o'clock yesterday morning the highest recording was 47.

LEWIS ORDERED TO 'CARRY ON' CIO

United Mine Workers at Convention Agree to Finance Program.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—John L. Lewis got orders from his United Mine Workers today to carry on the CIO.

They also promised him they would furnish the necessary money. Less than a dozen of the 2,000 delegates to the union's convention voted against a resolution to that effect.

A few minutes earlier the Rev. Father Francis J. Haas, former NRA labor adviser, received only lukewarm applause when he suggested that the CIO and AFL recognize their peace negotiations, broken off last December.

Father Haas said the first thing both sides should do was stop talking about the collapse of the last conference and go back into session, determined that they would stay there until they made peace.

Joseph Frantz Jr., of Williams, Okla., was the only delegate to speak against the CIO resolution. He demanded an accounting of the money the union had spent and intended to spend for the CIO fight, but offered no amendment to the resolution which said, in part:

"This convention authorizes and directs the officers of the United Mine Workers of America to continue the activities of the CIO with greater strength and increased activity for the purpose of ultimately achieving a labor movement in this country which shall afford the greatest economic and political strength to the workers of the country."

"The officers of the United Mine Workers of America shall offer whatever aid may be necessary, financial or otherwise, to the CIO for the purpose of carrying out and achieving this goal."

Stradivarius Quartet in Atlanta; Music Stays on Train to Alabama

Concert Sponsored by Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild Begins at 8:30 O'Clock Tonight; Hugh Hodgson, Atlanta, Is Assistant Artist.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG. The Stradivarius Quartet arrived in Atlanta early yesterday morning, and discovered after they were on their way to the home of their host, Hugh Hodgson, that they had left one of the most important parts of their ensemble on the train—the bag containing all their music!

Frantically they had to wire to Montgomery to have the music returned, and in the meantime Hodgson was scurrying around in his own library and calling musician friends to locate the Haydn and Beethoven quartets and the Schumann quintet that they will present on the program tonight at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium, so that rehearsals might proceed. Hodgson will be the assisting artist tonight.

The concert is being presented by the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild, of which Mrs. Guy Woolford is president. It begins at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets may be secured at the door.

Wolfe Wolfensohn, first violinist of the quartet, was born in Capetown, South Africa. He remarked that he is looking forward to this Georgia appearance for two reasons: First, to play for Georgians, and second, to meet Margaret Mitchell. All four of the artists were most enthusiastic over "Gone With the Wind."

Bernard Robbins, the second violinist, is the only American in the group, and the youngest member of the ensemble. He has been playing with them only a year. Marcel Dick, the viola player, is a native Austrian. He is a close musical and personal friend of Arnold Schoenberg, having played in many premiere performances of Schoenberg's in Vienna.

Iwan d'Archeambeau, cellist, a native of Belgium, returns to Atlanta with many happy memories, for as a member of the famous Flonzaley Quartet he has played here about 12 times before tonight, and will be remembered by a host of Atlantans who admired so greatly the Flonzaleys. d'Archeambeau recalled yesterday that the first time the Flonzaleys played

AIR CRASH VICTIMS' BODIES RECOVERED
Fliers Are Carried Out From Wilds on Stretchers.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The charred bodies of Gerard F. Vultee, 38-year-old aeronautical designer, and his wife, Sylvia, 27, were brought to Flagstaff early Monday from snow-covered Mount Wilson, where their flaming airplane fell Saturday.

The bodies were borne out of the rugged region on stretchers to a waiting truck. Twelve men of more than 100 who set out reached the ship after struggling for hours through the deep snow. Members of the party said the bodies were so badly burned that they were identified only through a wrist watch on Vultee's arm.

The sheriff's office said instructions had been received to cremate the bodies here and send the ashes to Los Angeles.

ENGINEER RETIRES FROM 50-YEAR JOB

J. A. Oliver Has Traveled 2,000,000 Miles, All on Atlanta Tracks.

He traveled nearly 2,000,000 miles—and never left Atlanta.

J. A. Oliver, veteran switch engineer, hung up that record yesterday when, despite his 70 years, he stepped spryly down from the cab of his faithful "iron horse," old "Number 1705," to round out 50 years as a railroad man.

During that period, Oliver had shunted a switch engine back and forth for an average of 100 miles a day, moving passenger trains around the terminal yards.

Now that he's retired, he plans to "loaf" on his farm and "watch the trains go by."

Oliver, who never had an accident, and was praised highly by J. R. Crang, terminal yard superintendent.

Oliver retired formally last Tuesday, but completed his last run yesterday.

"I got a little place a couple of miles from College Park," he said. "I'm going to loaf there. It's on the railroad right of way, so I can watch the trains go by and wave to the boys."

Oliver, married and living at 344 Orange street, S. W., began his railroad career as a fireman with the Richmond & Danville line October 7, 1887. On January 6, 1888, he was laid off, but resumed railroading 19 days later as fireman on the Georgia Pacific.

He became an engineer July 15, 1890. When the Richmond & Danville was merged with the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia, to become the Southern, he continued his work.

Exemption Bill Filed For County Line Homes

Where the house stands, there stands the homestead exemption. Senator George Allen, of Toconia, yesterday filed an amendment to the homestead exemption bill, clarifying the filing of exemption applications in cases where a county line divides the property.

The bill provides that in such event, the application shall be filed in the county where the dwelling is located. A certified copy of the application is then to be filed in the adjoining county, where the balance of the homesteaded property is located.

Stanley Reed Takes His Seat on Supreme Court Bench

Kentuckian Swears To 'Do Equal Justice to the Poor and to the Rich.'

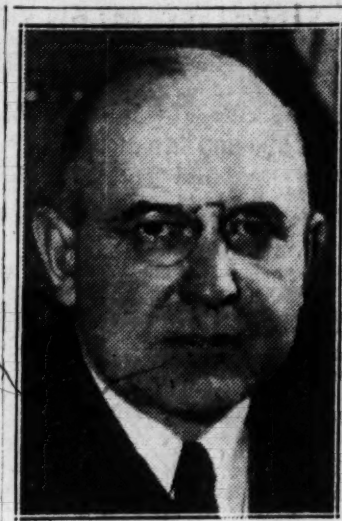

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Stanley L. Reed, of Kentucky, President Roosevelt's second appointee to the United States supreme court, today took his seat as an associate justice.

The former solicitor general took the judicial oath, administered by Charles E. Cropley, court clerk, in a brief and simple ceremony in the courtroom. Suffering apparent discomfort from a cold, Reed swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich."

He had taken an oath to uphold the constitution from Chief Justice Hughes in a private ceremony in the robing room.

When Reed took his seat on the bench, Justice Stone extended a welcoming hand.

The ceremony attracted a throng

JAPANESE APOLOGY FOR SLAP ACCEPTED

Tokyo Will Court-Martial 20 Men and Commander in Allison Incident.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The United States accepted today Japan's expressions of regret for the slapping last Wednesday at Nanking of John M. Allison, third secretary in charge of the embassy there by a Japanese soldier.

The State Department, making this announcement, made public a report from Allison which said the Japanese planned to court-martial the commanding officer and 20 men of the unit involved in the incident.

Japan's apology was oral, in response to oral representations made Saturday at Tokyo by Ambassador Grew.

The envoy was instructed to stress the incident represented only one of a series of occurrences involving American-Japanese friction, which could not be dissociated from cases of disregard of American rights by Japanese soldiers at Nanking. The State Department is still awaiting a reply to the note of protest over these incidents given Japan on January 17.

Regret Expressed.

Ambassador Grew reported to the State Department the Japanese vice minister of foreign affairs expressed to him in the name of the Japanese government profound regret at the assault on Allison and gave assurances that after strict investigation the Tokyo government would take suitable and adequate measures to punish those concerned in this affair.

The Embassy translated as follows the text of the vice minister's oral communication:

"Wherever the antecedent circumstances might have been, the striking by a Japanese soldier of an American consular officer is a most regrettable occurrence. A Japanese staff officer has already expressed in the name of the commanding officer regrets and apologies over the incident, and although Mr. Allison has apparently accepted such regrets and apologies, the imperial government for its part hereby expresses its profound regrets over the occurrence of this unfortunate incident."

Punishment Assured.

"In view of the serious character of this incident the imperial government gives assurance that after strict investigation, it will take suitable and adequate measures to punish those concerned in this affair."

"Whenever incidents of this character take place, discrepancies are likely to occur between the respective contentions of the persons involved, and in this instance there are substantial differences between Consul Allison's report, as described in the complaint of the American government, and in the report received by the Japanese government, in respect of the circumstances leading up to the slapping of the American consul by the Japanese soldier. The determination of the actual facts must await a careful investigation, which is now to be undertaken, and it is desired accordingly to report the case without such investigation."

Previous Dissent.

A previous case in which Justice Black returned a dissenting opinion was also a Japanese case, involving the Indianapolis Water Company.

In that majority opinion Justice Hughes had said:

"In the majority opinion returning the Indianapolis water rate to a federal district court, the district court would be able to determine whether a rate schedule fixed by the State Public Service Commission for the Indianapolis Water Company should be revised in the light of recent business conditions."

Fluctuation Value.

"The district court held in November, 1935, that the valuation of the company's property was $21,392,821 as of April 1, 1933. The seventh circuit of appeals later decided the valuation for rate-making purposes should be $23,368,258, because there had been a 'constant and definite trend upward in commodity prices' since that date."

In dissenting from that opinion, Justice Black said he believed the state of Indiana had the right to regulate the price of water. In Indianapolis "free from interference by federal courts."

In another far-reaching decision, the court unanimously decided that federal courts cannot enjoin the National Labor Relations Board from conducting hearings on alleged unfair labor practices.

The Massachusetts federal district court had issued an injunction in May, 1936, in behalf of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., and its action had been upheld by the first circuit court of appeals.

The majority opinion in the Shipbuilding case was written by Chief Justice Brandeis and was joined by Justices Black, Brandeis, and Clegg.

BARKLEY WILL RISK CHANDLER BATTLE

Declines To Urge Logan for Bench To Create Vacancy for Governor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Democratic Leader Barkley invited a re-election battle with Governor A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky tonight, saying he was unwilling to enter into a "conspiracy" to give Senator Logan, of Kentucky, a judgeship and thus create a senate vacancy for the Governor.

The senate leader's statement was issued at the close of a day in which several callers had carried to the White House the hot political potato developed in Kentucky.

Governor Chandler, who for some time has been reported about to run for Barkley's senate seat, visited the White House and left without disclosing his intentions.

Two other Kentuckians, John Rhea Brown and Thomas S. Rhea, anti-Chandler men, visited the chief executive and emerged with word that Mr. Roosevelt had left no doubt he was for Barkley's re-election.

HUGH C. COUCH.

H. C. COUCH ENTERS COMMISSION RACE

Former College Park Mayor Calls for Practical Application of Economy.

As the qualifying deadline for the March 2 Fulton county Democratic primary passed yesterday, 10 candidates had qualified in the races to nominate three commissioners and three municipal judges.

Hugh C. Couch, former mayor of College Park, will oppose Dr. Charles R. Adams, incumbent, I. Gloer Bailey and J. H. Ewing.

Couch paid his $50 entrance fee Saturday, announcing a platform calling for "practical application" of economy and efficiency in the county government.

Couch, a former officer of the Southern Railway, announced his platform as follows:

"I enter this race for county commission with the conviction that by reason of experience in both business and practical economics I can render a useful public service. What much interested in economy and efficiency in government, I propose to work harmoniously with the other commissioners and with the duly constituted authorities of the city of Atlanta and other incorporated communities of the county to the end that sectionalism and personalities may be submerged to the full extent consistent with the best interest of the public welfare."

P. J. A. BERCKMANS DIES AT AUGUSTA

Nationally Known Horticulturist Managed National Golf Grounds.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Prosper Jules Alphonse Berckmans, 72, nationally known horticulturist and manager of the grounds at the Augusta National golf course, died unexpectedly tonight at 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Berckmans was well known to hundreds of golf professionals who have entered the Masters' tournament and to winter visitors who have played the course.

He was for many years connected with the P. J. Berckmans Company, at one time one of the south's leading horticultural establishments. He was interested in extensive peach growing near Mayfield, Ga.

The property on which the Augusta National now stands had been in the possession of the Berckmans family since 1856. Mr. Berckmans was born in what is now the clubhouse. Three generations had occupied the home.

He was one of the oldest members of the American Horticulture Society.

At a reception given for him by the Grand Army of the Republic, Union Commander Overton H. Mennet, of Los Angeles, said he had been unable to obtain assurance from the committee arranging the reunion that only the national flag would be displayed.

That was the condition on which G. A. R. participation was approved at its annual encampment last fall after 11 hours' debate.

Mennet said letters, phone calls and telegrams to the commission about the flag question had brought no answer.

Among those taken into custody were Hiroto Arisawa, Yoshitaro Wakimura, professors at the Tokyo Imperial University, and Ryokichi Minobe and Kinji Mipami, of Hosen University.

KLAN LEADER LOSES TWO LABEL SUITS

Dr. H. W. Evans Fails To Appear for Trial in Dallas.

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 31.—(AP) Two label suits filed in August, 1925, by Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, against the American Publishing Company and General M. M. Crane, were dismissed today.

The suits, alleging libel, were based on remarks made by General Crane in a speech before the state Democratic convention at Austin in the fall of 1924, which ratified the nomination of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for governor.

Parts of General Crane's address were published in the Austin American and the Dallas News. Dr. Evans originally sued A. H. Belo Corporation, publisher of the Dallas News, but the suit was dismissed some time ago.

Judge W. L. Thornton, in whose court the two suits were pending, said that he would dismiss the suits unless the plaintiff agreed to a setting of a day. The court was informed efforts to have Dr. Evans come to Dallas for a trial failed and a motion for dismissal was filed.

The suit against the American Publishing Company and General Crane was tried several years ago and resulted in a hung jury.

"I have no statement to make," Dr. Evans, of 306 Peachtree Boulevard, said here last night when informed of the Dallas action. He refused to say whether he would seek further court action against General Crane and the publishing company.

Economic Group To Attend Conference This Week With President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP) Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today that he had asked for small business aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, federal reserve banks and the Federal Housing Administration to provide financing for small business.

He declined to say, however, whether he believed such aid should be extended. "What else can be done I can't say offhand," he said, adding that a study of the problem was being made by other federal agencies.

Draper's announcement, relating to the scheduled conference between representatives of small business and President Roosevelt at the White House Thursday afternoon, said there were 10 pressing problems of this group as indicated in their letters to the Commerce Department and executive mansion.

Problems Listed.

These problems are:

1. Loans to small corporations.

2. Fair trade practices and prices, including monopolies.

3. Wages and hours legislation.

4. Housing.

5. Unemployment.

6. Social security.

7. Government research for small business.

8. Development and location of small industries.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

DAUGHTER IS BORN TO HOLLAND'S QUEEN

Breda and Amersfoort garrisons.

In Amsterdam crowds had collected on the historic Dam square in expectation of the announcement. As the news came, thousands chanted the solemn national anthem of ancient Holland and its royal house, "Wilhelmus van Nassauwen."

After the first moments of reverence, the Netherlands went wild with joy.

Strong Pair of Lungs.

Prince Saud, Juliana's secretary, announced quizzically:

"The new Princess has a strong, well-developed pair of lungs—as we in the palace already know."

Before midnight the attending physicians had been called to the palace, followed by great crowds that watched throughout the night at the gates of the palace. The news was flashed at 10 a. m. and a few moments later at The Hague the official proclamation was issued, printed in the royal colors of orange and blue:

"Fellow citizens: It is with deep-felt joy that we proclaim that today, January 31, 1938, through the grace of God is born the Princess of Orange-Nassau, Princess of Lippe-Biesterfeld, whereby the heart's desire of all Netherlands people is realized."

"Long live the royal family!"

Eye-brow-Plucking Banned.

The baby was born under the anxious supervision of Queen Wilhelmina, who kept beauty specialists away from Juliana and ordered her to pluck her eyebrows during her expectancy.

Unless Juliana has a son, the new princess may one day become queen, following her grandmother Wilhelmina and her mother. Her name will be announced tomorrow when Bernhard makes the official registration before Premier Hendrick Colijn. Her name was expected to be Wilhelmina Bernhardina Armgard. Prince Bernhard's mother's name is Armgard.

Juliana and her consort, also 28, were married January 7, 1937.

Holland's last king died in 1890 and was succeeded by Queen Wilhelmina, who was born in 1880. By his first wife he had had three sons but they all died childless before him. Wilhelmina was the only child of his second marriage.

Princess Jana was the only child of the marriage of Wilhelmina and Prince Henry, Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who died in 1934. The three only children all were born on the last day of the month.

Lanier and Jones counties equalized their quotas of $250 and $400, respectively.

Mr. Dunlap said that those counties which have not yet raised their quotas would continue to sell fund certificates this week so as to make as creditable a showing as possible Saturday night.

The victory dinner has been arranged on an elaborate program of speeches. The program will be broadcast over Atlanta radio stations. Among honor guests will be George Allen, national director of the infantile paralysis foundation; Senator George, Governor Rivers and Keith Morgan, national chairman of the campaign.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Whatever may come of its proposals, the report of former Premier Van Zeeland is likely to have a favorable effect upon Anglo-American trade negotiations, so far as Great Britain is concerned. It will give the government effective arguments against the opposition which has been developing here to granting to American trade the favors which Secretary of State Hull is asking for it.

It is, of course, at least doubtful whether the recommendations of the Van Zeeland report, practical as they are, will come to much, so far as Europe is concerned.

They involve co-operation of the dictatorial powers upon terms which are not likely to be acceptable to those powers.

LOANS MUST PRECEDE COMEBACK OF COUNTRIES

Van Zeeland recognizes that countries like Germany and Italy, with exchange restrictions, can stage an effective comeback in world trade and finance only after they have been lent money or given credits. But, in talking about the necessity for political conditions for those credits, he recognizes that the dictatorial powers are not prepared to lend money to the dictatorships as things stand. In this, he is right.

The attitude of the British government and the British public toward loans to Germany or Italy is exactly the same as their attitude toward the question of Germany.

They will consider such concessions only as part of a general settlement of the troubles of the world. This has been shown clearly by comments in business and political circles upon current rumors that Mussolini is trying to raise a loan here.

SOME ARE HELD LIKELY TO FAVOR LENDING

To have, of course, a group of financiers who might, if left to themselves, lend money to the dictatorships. But it is clearer than ever that the group is small in numbers and influence. Also, the power of the government over lending abroad is considerable.

Nor is it believed here that either Germany or Italy is ready to desert economic nationalism. Propaganda in favor of economic nationalism has recently broadened in the United States. It is no longer simply a case of preparedness for war. It is now being argued

Save-Soil Districts Hailed as Biggest Boon

Man and Land Have To Get Along Together, Atlanta Parley Told.

Organization of soil conservation districts throughout the nation will prove the greatest forward step yet taken by farmers and the Department of Agriculture in the fight to prevent soil washing away, M. L. Wilson, undersecretary of agriculture, declared here yesterday.

Wilson presided at the opening session of a two-day soil conservation service conference which is holding a pre-convention meeting at the Ansley hotel. The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, which will bring together the leading agricultural experts of the southeast, will open tomorrow.

15,000,000 Acres Covered.
Other speakers said 35 soil conservation districts have been organized throughout the country during the last six months. They cover 15,000,000 acres and 23,000 farmers voted in favor of their organization.

"A greater sense for the land and man's relation to it—the fact that man and the land have to get along together—has developed over the country during the last few years," Wilson said. "The small demonstration projects and proving ground areas will adapt proven erosion control practices. The hope is that through local rule and Democratic government procedure of organized districts those practices can be put into effect by farmers generally."

Dr. T. S. Buie, southeastern director of soil conservation service, reviewed the history of the government's soil conservation campaign from creation of the Soil Erosion Service in 1933 through organization of demonstration projects and into the present program.

Soil conservation workers of the southeast gathered here yesterday for a two-day discussion of their program for preserving the nation's land. Above are shown three of the leaders of the conference, Dr. T. S. Buie, of Spartanburg, S. C., regional conservator of the southeastern region of the soil conservation service; Dr. M. L. Wilson, of Washington, undersecretary of agriculture, who presided at the round-table discussions; and Dr. Dillon S. Myer, of Washington, assistant chief of the soil conservation service. This is a preliminary meeting to the 39th annual convention of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers which opens tomorrow.

"Through organized districts, the government will be able to co-operate with large groups of farmers as one instead of with individuals," Buie said. "The organized farmers will be able to work out their own program of soil conservation, administer it locally, and co-ordinate all help they can get from the Soil Conservation Service and other agencies of the state and federal governments."

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Harry L. Brown, of Atlanta, will address the body this morning.

At another pre-convention meeting being held by the southern conference of engineering specialists at the Henry Grady hotel, Reuben Brigham, assistant director of extension work of the United States Department of Agriculture, declared all government and agricultural agencies must be combined before a county agricultural program can be formulated.

"As a whole the government's program has been good, but there have been and are many gaps," Brigham said. "Local people, extension specialists, action agencies and all other agencies must work together to fill these gaps and determine a program that will raise the standard of living in the south."

Declaring use of data on the type of farming area is a necessary basis for determining adjustments in the county agricultural program, B. L. Hummel, extension sociologist, of Virginia, said it was not as easy to begin raising livestock as it appeared.

"First the farmers of Georgia must raise more feedstuff and pastures must be terraced to prevent erosion before livestock can be developed widely as an industry in this state," he said. "Farmers already import feedstuff for animals."

Plans for farm building in the southeast were discussed and selected by extension engineers at a three-day planning conference just completed. These engineers selected types and plans for houses, barns and all rural building that will be printed and distributed to farmers through the county agents.

Lowest Farm Building.
The engineers pointed to a statement that "farm building in the southeast is the lowest in the country" and attempted to develop means of raising the standard of living by improving the lower priced farm dwellings, making them more comfortable and safe.

Farmers were cautioned to watch particularly in building that sufficient rooms were provided for the family; that each room have two windows on more than one wall; sanitation and adequate room for storing food so they would not have to buy products and could be raised on the farm.

D. S. Weaver, of the State College of North Carolina, and S. P. Lyle, Department of Agriculture engineer, presided over the conference.

Lint Area Income Lower.
Dr. Eric Englund, assistant chief of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics, declared the average gross farm income per capita of farm population was considerably lower in the 10 major cotton states than in the remainder of the country.

"Unless future prices and total income of cotton are materially higher than in the past," he said, "incomes per worker and per family on cotton farms generally probably will continue relatively low unless it be found possible, through changes in production technique or by modifications of the farming system, to expand acreage and volume of production per worker on cotton farms."

Rapidly growing cities and towns in the south are providing an outlet for surplus population and furnishes an expanding local market for commodities produced on the farm, Englund said.

proposed program would give the United States 21 capital ships—battleships or battle cruisers—compared with Great Britain 25, Japan's 14, France's 11, Germany's 8 and Italy's 6.

He described the submarine situation as "serious" because this country has fewer modern submarines than any other world naval power. Under the new program, nine submarine could be built, bringing the American total of 58. Asked what area the navy included inside its "line of defense," Leahy indicated it embraced all insular possessions, including the Philippines, in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. He reiterated, however, the fleet would not be adequate even with the proposed increases to defend both the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines.

No "Policing" Wanted.
Representative Kniffin, Democrat, Ohio, asserted he was opposed to using the fleet as "a police force" or "a subsidiary of some organization that wants to exploit people on the other side of the globe."

Committee members asked Leahy whether the building program was designed to meet any specific emergency but the witness repeatedly declared it was necessary solely because of armament programs abroad.

He called attention to the fact that Great Britain had embarked on "a prodigious rearmament program" as soon as she was free of the limitations of the now defunct 1930 London and Washington treaties.

"Japan since 1936 has not been bound by any treaties," he added.

WARSHIPS DEPLOYED

TEN DEFEAT LOS ANGELES
SAN PEDRO, Cal., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ninety-eight warships and 260 fighting planes were deployed to night in defense of the Los Angeles harbor area.

This first concentration here of the United States fleet, in condition of battle readiness and under sealed orders, was the beginning of five days of intensive war games off southern California.

While the aircraft carriers, submarines, light cruisers, destroyers and training ships moved from San Diego harbor, security patrols of fighting planes dived through the mists shrouding the battleships and heavy cruisers.

Mr. Carlisle To Aid.
Mrs. Henrietta Carlisle, secretary of the National Bank of Athens, said she would carry full details of the campaign in its next issue. He was a visitor in Atlanta yesterday.

B. G. Thompson, Putnam county agent, praised the program as "the greatest campaign that could be instituted" and pledged his wholehearted support. He commented on the $375 which the National Bank of Athens has offered to farmers in Clarke and five surrounding counties as follows:

"I noticed where the National Bank of Athens has added $375 to the campaign fund. I wish that The Atlanta Constitution would urge all of the banks in the state of Georgia to co-operate financially in this wonderful movement to make it possible for a prize to be awarded each county winner. I believe the banks would grasp this opportunity with pleasure to contribute to the welfare of the state."

in and mailed directly to Walter S. Brown, director of the extension service at Athens. Details of the negro division of the Plant-to-Prosper program will be announced as soon as completed.

"We wish to go on record as wholeheartedly endorsing the Plant-to-Prosper competition campaign as outlined in The Constitution and pledge to you our full co-operation in this county," the letter from Mr. Prance and Miss Sanford said.

Appeal to Farm Women.
"We believe this program will appeal to our farmers and farm women and that they will show their interest by co-operating in a wholehearted way to help make their county and state self-sufficient in food products," Leahy said.

"The things outlined in the program are some of the things we have been teaching and preaching for years. The support and influence of your institution behind such a movement will give impetus, encouragement and inspiration as soon as she was free of the limitations of the now defunct 1930 London and Washington treaties."

"Japan since 1936 has not been bound by any treaties," he added.

Step in Right Direction.
"I have read with a great deal of interest your announcement of the Plant-to-Prosper campaign, which The Atlanta Constitution will sponsor in Georgia this year," Mr. Vansant wrote. "This is a step in the right direction, and I know that you will be more than pleased with the results."

"The Plant-to-Prosper campaign is in line with the objectives of the Farm Security Administration in its program of farm rehabilitation in Georgia, and I want to assure you that we will give you our hearty support."

"Our county farm and home supervisors work very closely with the county agents and home demonstration agents and will lend every assistance possible in encouraging farmers to participate in this important campaign."

"You may feel free to tell upon us when we can be of service."

Praise by Rountree.
Editor Charles D. Rountree, of the Wrightsville Headlight, Johnson county, devoted the lead editorial to "The Constitution's Plant-to-Prosper Contest."

Carl Rountree, associate editor of the Headlight, set the tone of the paper, to commend you on this forward step. We sincerely believe it is one of the most beneficial and unselfish moves in the great history of The Atlanta Constitution.

"We shall endeavor to keep this contest before our people, and believe they will respond wholeheartedly."

Other Editors Co-operate.
B. H. Hardy, editor of The News-Gazette, Barnesville, Lamar county, and Hugh J. Rowe, editor of The Athens Banner-Herald, Clarke county, devoted considerable news and editorial space to the program last week. Editor Tom Gregory, editor of The Messenger, Eatonton, Putnam county, said his publication will carry full details of the campaign in its next issue. He was a visitor in Atlanta yesterday.

Pickpocket Lifts $1,325 From Officer

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—J. A. Barry said he missed the wallet while in a roadside restaurant in the northeast section.

of the cash awards and prizes equal in some instances and surpass in others those of farmers of other counties.

"The contest simply is an invitation to the farmer to help himself. It is one of the most unselfish programs ever presented to the individual farmer, whether he is a tenant or share-cropper."

"Essentially, to win one of the awards or prizes, the farmer must live at home. That is, he must produce the needs of the family on the farm and there is no reason why farmers of Johnson county cannot do it. In the judging, 40 per cent will be based on this one feature."

"Soil conservation, diversification and home improvement are the other premises on which the awards will be based and each will be considered equally."

"To enter this contest, it is necessary for each farmer of the county to obtain an entry blank from the county agent or home demonstration agent and mail it to Walter S. Brown, state director of extension service at Athens. Signing of the blank involves no obligation on the part of the farm family."

The Headlight enthusiastically endorses this contest, believing that it will awaken the farmers of our county and the rest of the state to an opportunity which has been knocking at their doors for a long time.

"We hope every farmer in the county will enter this contest in a wholehearted manner and in doing so we feel sure that all will prosper."

"Besides the $3,500 cash awards, the paper is offering six silver trophies and 577 other honors to the farmers of the state.

"Within the past five years, Johnson county has made rapid strides in the direction of the goal The Constitution is pointing to. Our farmers have doubled their number of cattle and increased by 10 per cent the number of hogs."

"They have spent thousands and thousands of dollars in legumes to improve their soil and it is now just beginning to pay dividends."

"Diversification has been followed to some extent but there is still room for improvement and that is one of the objects The Constitution is attempting to promote."

"Home improvement has made rapid strides. There are some of the prettiest country homes in the state in Johnson county and the pride being evidenced in them is visible to all who are interested."

BUST THAT COLD WIDE OPEN

Don't Merely Humor It!

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in serious manner. A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold."

Treat a cold for what it is—an internal infection. Therefore, internal treatment.

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all."

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) are what you want. They are made expressly for the treatment of colds and not for all kinds of ailments.

They are internal in effect and do four important things.

First, they open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Fourth, they tone the system and help fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets are a proven preparation. They have been on the market over 40 years and are the world's largest-selling cold tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy." It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money.

When you feel a cold coming on—don't wait—don't procrastinate—but go right to your druggist and get a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).

Fulton High and Marist, two members of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference, will open the program at 7 o'clock. Boys' High and Commercial will follow at 8 o'clock with Tech High and Decatur High closing the opening day's program at 9 o'clock.

Russell High drew a bye in the first round and will meet the winner of the Boys' High-Commercial game at 9 o'clock Friday night in the close of the semi-final program.

The finals will be played at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night with a preliminary game scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. It was not decided Monday afternoon whether or not the semi-final losers or a girls' game will be played as the preliminary.

Only Decatur High is unbeaten in prep competition since mid-November. Both teams appear of equal strength, no attempt was made to seed any favorite. The seven teams were drawn out of a hat, with the first two drawn out being placed in the upper bracket.

Purples Meet Jordan Tonight.

Two games will be played today in the opening of the second half of the Big Eight schedule. Tech High plays Commercial at 3 o'clock on the Fulton court and Boys' High plays Jordan High, the undefeated league leader, at 8 o'clock on the Henry Grady court. The Boys' High-Jordan game will feature a double-header, with Miller Service and Canton girls' playing a preliminary at 7 o'clock. The girls have won one game each and tonight's game will be the deciding issue.

G. M. A. will leave Wednesday morning to play freshmen teams at Clemson, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Davidson on successive nights, returning home next Sunday.

In the N. G. I. C., Russell High will play Decatur in a double-header, the girls' game starting at 7:30 o'clock and the boys' game following. Both games will be played in Decatur.

Warren Arena Is G.I.A.A. Site

Georgia's high school basketball championship tournament will be played on the newly constructed Warren Arena court on Chester street, S. E. It was announced Monday, following a tournament committee meeting at the arena, that Tech High, Boys' High, G. M. A., Marist College and Commercial will jointly sponsor the tournament, in co-operation with V. P. Warren Jr., manager for the arena. Warren offered use of the court Saturday night at a meeting of the G. I. A. A., but it was not until Monday that complete details for the tournament were completed.

Dates for the tournament were set for February 24, 25 and 26, and due to the arena being in use on Thursday night, February 24, two afternoon games will be played there and the night session with two games will be played on the Henry Grady court.

Dot Kirby Is Puzzled By Greens at Miami

By DOROTHY KIRBY

MIAMI BILTMORE, Jan. 31.—I hate to even talk about what happened today, so will keep off the subject of myself and just say I shot a 91, which should explain everything. The funny thing about it all I was hitting my shots all right, but couldn't get the little ball to go in the hole. As any rate, I qualified but I was a little shaky for a while.

Three tied for the low medal and will have to play it off. They were Marion Miley, Patty Berg and Jane Jameson. Jane played with me and she certainly played some fine golf.

There was a rather stiff breeze all morning and it was difficult to keep the ball on line. The greens are hard to get on to, for when you hit a pitch shot to them it runs like a rabbit, but when you putt they are very slow, so it's quite a problem and I hope to tomorrow.

I thought I would never get around this golf course. It looked like everything I did was wrong. However, tomorrow is another day.

We watched something interesting this afternoon. They were making some movies at the Biltmore pool. They are going to be shown in some newsreels. Pictures were being taken of several national diving champions, and they could really dive. I've never seen such perfect timing. I wish I had the same thing in my golf swing.

Some of the pairings for tomorrow are: Mrs. Jane Jameson plays Mrs. Leo Walper, Dorothy Traung plays Mrs. Guy Butler, Kathryn Hemphill plays Miss Gladys Durand and Marion Miley plays Mrs. Fitzgibbon.

I play Mrs. Douglas Hill who shot a 92 and we start at 10:45.

pany. Now, you have made me sadder than ever. The Ku Klux Klan, indeed.

It was in the first week here that some friendly and familiar colors were seen coming into the harbor flying from the mast of a large white ship.

They were the colors of Auburn. The familiar blue and orange were fluttering in the breeze. I tried to recognize Jack Meagher on the bridge. I looked in vain for the slight but vigorous figure of Mr. Elmer Salter.

For a moment I wondered if the Orange Bowl game had been transferred to Copenhagen. They play so many of these "bowl" games that there is no telling.

"That looks like an Auburn ship."

"Sorry," said Mr. Syd Williams, the former Georgia Tech end, "that is a Swedish ship. Sweden has the Auburn colors. I don't see why Auburn doesn't do something about it."

Since then I have heard the Swedish national anthem. It doesn't at all resemble the "Alma Mater Song" at Auburn. It is slower. It doesn't have any touchdown appeal in it.

If Sweden had infringed on the Auburn alma mater song I was going to cable Mr. Alfred Young's committee in Columbus, Georgia, and have them engage Judge Frank Foley to enjoin the Swedish government. But it seems to be all right.

REAL ATHLETIC TRAINING.

Not until a night or so ago did the Lady Who Is Traveling With Me suggest a movie. It seemed simple enough. In a city of about one million people a movie should have been most easy to attend. The papers were filled with ads. There seemed to be movies most everywhere.

And so, having selected a likely comedy which included a couple of well-known American players as stars, we took Spoorvogn No. 9, which is just a street car, and went down to the city. There seemed to be a crowd in front of the theater.

Not only that but the crowd was struggling. We entered it. Within a few moments two buttons had been torn off my overcoat, the old dogs had been stepped on at least a dozen times and there was some open violation of the rules prohibiting use of elbows.

I took another look, but it was a movie house and not a place where something valuable was being given away free. At last the ticket window was reached and your battered and worn correspondent held up a five kroner note and said, in his best Danish, "Two."

The young lady shook her head negatively. At such a time one prays for the gift of tongues.

"Two," said your correspondent in pure Danish, trying it again. The young lady hadn't changed her mind. She said "No."

Also in pure Danish.

Back in the crowd some educated gentleman said, "This is the reserved ticket window."

So, that was it. After many black looks and more elbows and more injuries to the feet, your correspondent reached the starting point.

"What took you so long?" asked the Little Woman.

There was another window. They were struggling in front of it with even more ferocity. Reaching it at last and clinging to the window, your correspondent held up the crumpled five-kroner note. The young lady wagged her head again. The situation was desperate. But again, there was another literate man in the crowd and he said, "I am sorry, sir, but the last one has been sold."

"Did they have some good seats?" asked the Lady Who Is Traveling With Me when, stripped of coat buttons, shoe shine ruined and temper sadly frayed, your old partner again reached the starting point.

The movies in this town of a million people are not continuous. They show one performance in the afternoon and two in the evening. If the show is any good, an American film will remain for six or seven weeks.

The films are the regular "talkies" but frequent subtitles which are printed across the bottom of the film keep the audiences informed as to the gags and the trend of the picture. They seem to miss very little of the plot but some of the gags, especially those of a rapid-fire comedy such as one by the Marx brothers, are missed entirely. For instance, viewing the Marx brothers' "A Day at the Races," the audience never tittered at the scene in the hospital where the doctor hired to expose "Dr. Hackenbush," demands an X-ray. Harpo grabs some papers and begins to shout, "X-ray, X-ray," but the gag doesn't go over because here the newsboys do not shout their wares in the American fashion and there are few, if any, extra editions.

A Danish couple, both of whom speak and understand English perfectly, said they had no trouble. So strong was the instinct for their own language they were not conscious of hearing the actors talk but simply read the sub-titles. It required strict attention to hear the talking.

But remember when visiting Denmark—if the film is popular—call up and have tickets reserved. I doubt if even Dutch Konemann would make an impression in one of the struggles for tickets at the gate.

KIRBY QUALIFIES WITH 91 ROUND IN MIAMI MEET

Berg, Jameson, Miley Share Medal of Miami Biltmore Meet.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 31.—(P)—Patty Berg, the Minneapolis red-head, shared the qualifying medal with two others who fired two-under-par 80's in the Miami Biltmore women's golf tournament today but was seeded No. 3 for the first-round draw.

Mrs. Jane Cöthran Jameson, of West Palm Beach, Fla., received the top spot and Marion Miley, of Fort Pierce, Fla., the No. 2 position on a comparison of second-nine cards.

Match Play Begins Tomorrow.

Miss Berg, winner of the recent Augusta (Ga.) and Punta Gorda (Fla.) tournaments, three-putted the final green to ruin her chances of earning the medal outright. Hitting the ball well, Miss Berg rounded the turn in 39, one under women's par, after picking up birdies at the seventh and eighth holes. She dropped a sizeable putt for an eagle three on the tenth and birdied the 12th but she wandered over par on the 13th and home holes for an incoming 41.

Mrs. Jameson, out in 41, came back in 39 despite a penalty shot at the 17th, where her second shot found the water. Miss Miley had a 40 on each side but played erratic golf. Her card showed four birdies and an eagle but she went over par on one hole.

Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., runner-up to Miss Berg at Punta Gorda, and Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., qualified with 83's, a stroke ahead of Marion McDougall, of Portland, Ore. Dorothy Traung, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Lillian Zech, of Chicago, shot 86's.

Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, southern women's champion, was well down the list of qualifiers with a 91, due to difficulty on the back nine, but was assured of one of the 32 places in the championship division.

The losing 16 in tomorrow's preliminary round of match play will drop in the second flight. Two rounds will be played Wednesday, semi-finals Thursday and the 36-hole final Friday.

As Beth Disappears.

And, since it was not quite dark, they decided it would be best to go on anyway. They felt little concern over Beth, figuring she might have gone on ahead."

A Great Retriever

Major Scott, Author of Tale About Beth, a Great Retriever, Who Caught the Bass Which Swallowed the Bird.

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 31.—There wasn't much he could do about it after he had walked into the room—this room where the air was thick with smoke and more or less attentive listeners.

Common courtesy dictates that you don't walk out on a fellow's story, especially if you arrive just as he has started. And it may have seemed Dr. George Myshrell right. I think a lot of fellows have suffered through his stories in uncomplaining silence.

"Well, sir," the fellow in the faded felt was saying by way of preliminary, "for the sake of fairness and truth, this story originated with Major Trammell Scott. I want you to know this right away so you will quit looking at each other as you are and remove the evident suspicion from your minds."

"The story—as told to me by Trammell—concerns Beth, a great retriever.

"This party had been in the fields all day and with fair success. It was getting along toward nightfall and dusk was creeping over the pines and the sedge grass.

"Just about 10, Beth pointed a covey in some cover near the edge of this lake. The light was not so good and a background of trees interfered with sight.

"I think they got just one bird out of the covey, and it fell out in the lake, hardly had it hit the water when there was a mighty swirl and then only ripples where the bird had fallen."

"Excuse me just a second," interrupted Dr. Myshrell, incredulously. "Do you mean to sit there and tell us that a fish swallowed the bird? Do you mean that?"

The fellow in the faded felt shifted a bit in his chair and regarded Dr. Myshrell with a stern and reproving eye. "That is the way I got the story from Trammell Scott, as I said in the beginning. And now, if there are no more questions, I will go on with the story."

No Concern Felt As Beth Disappears.

DELATED TRIALS TO START TODAY WITH 62 ENTRIES

Puppy and Derby Stakes Are on Program at Albany.

By JACK TROY.

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 31.—Attending what should be the greatest field trials in the annals of the Southern Amateur Club, rain on opening day puts one in somewhat the same position as the schoolboy who was sent out to cover a parade and write a 500-word essay describing it. He wrote that he found a vantage point and then, in some 200 words, he repeated the fact that "I waited and I waited and I waited." To take care of 200 more words he repeated the phrase "and they came and they came and they came."

Finishing up in brisk style, he reported that he then returned to school, noting some of the things he had seen along the way.

It will all be different tomorrow. The brilliant field trials will get under way with the staging of puppy and derby stakes. There are 62 entries for the seventh renewal of the classic event.

The delay has proved a break for Major Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, who is now able to be in on all the big doings. He would have missed opening day had the events gone off on schedule.

Bobby Jones is taking part in the trials both as owner and handler. He will handle Suzette in the puppy stakes.

Hillsman Walters, secretary of the club, Bobby Jones and Sigo Farkas were winning owners last year. Walters won with Foolproof in the all-age. Jones won with Elokonoe Don in the derby and Farkas won with Gobbler in the puppy stake. All three dogs are running again this year.

G. C. Hamrick, president of the Field Trial Club, received the following for the club from Caroline Parker Smith (Mrs. T. C. Chubb), who is unable to attend because of illness:

"Even if Jim Dog loses I shall love you always. Please buy a very long ago and one of them strayed away. Beth is even now out looking for it. It may take time—maybe a year—but Beth will be back with the pup. She's a great retriever. I know this is true because Trammell Scott tells me so."

Field Trial Club Re-elects Officers

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 31.—All officers of the Southern Amateur Field Trial Club were unanimously re-elected at tonight's annual dinner and meeting.

Only one officer failed to try to relinquish his position in the interest of seeing the jobs passed around. That was Thomas C. Chubb, vice president, who is unable to be here because of illness of his wife.

Oratorical efforts of the present officers to resign failed, and so G. C. Hamrick will serve a third term as president. Chubb remains as vice president. Joe Rosenberg continues as treasurer and Hillsman Walters carries on as secretary.

The new board of directors, including those whose terms had not expired, include W. C. Potter, Bob Woodruff, Charles Jordan, Dr. George Myshrell, Bob Sealy, Sigo Farkas, Trammell Scott, Delaney Allen and G. C. Dudley.

The following resolution was adopted: Whereas, the Honorable Robert Worth Bingham, late ambassador to the Court of St. James, and distinguished American citizen, was one of the founders of the Southern Amateur Field Trial Association; and

Whereas, by his life and example he exemplified the true qualities of all good sportsmen; and

Whereas, his assistance and inspirational leadership made the continued success of this association possible; therefore, Be it resolved, by the Southern Amateur Field Trial Association in convention assembled at its annual meeting in Albany, Ga., that we deeply deplore the loss of this true sportsman, and that we express to his family our lasting appreciation of his life and his accomplishments.

Be it further resolved, that a copy hereof be sent his family and that the secretary be directed to place them upon the permanent records of this organization.

48,000 REGISTERED IN FULTON PRIMARY AS BOOKS ARE SHUT

Candidates for Commissioner and Judgeship in Last-Minute Entries.

Registration of voters for the Fulton Democratic primary to be held March 2 was closed yesterday at 5 o'clock with an estimated 48,000 persons registered.

Qualifying deadline for candidates passed at 12 o'clock noon with two last-minute entries, one for commissioner, the other for municipal judge.

Dwight T. Minihinnett, a justice of the peace in the Buckhead district, paid $600 to J. Wilson Parker, secretary of the Fulton Democratic executive committee, to oppose Chief Judge Luther Z. Rosser, while Commissioner Troy G. Chastain paid a $500 entrance fee to succeed himself.

Office is jammed. The tax collector's office was jammed all day for eleventh-hour registrations. The large total will be reduced to between 42,000 and 45,000, it was estimated, after the board of registrars has gone over the lists.

Voting lists for the special sheriff's election to be held the same day as the primary were closed several weeks ago, although candidates in that race have until February 14 to qualify.

Also to be voted on March 2 is a referendum to determine whether voters want future primaries held in spring or fall. The last grand jury and numerous civic and voters' clubs have expressed themselves in favor of the later date, asserting an early primary fails to bring out a representative vote.

Eight men qualified for three commission posts and four for three municipal judgeships.

Those in Races. In the commissioner's race, Commissioner C. R. Adams is opposed by I. Glover Bailey, J. H. Ewing and Hugh C. Couch, while Commissioner Ed L. Almond will run against G. Dan Bridges and Frank F. Smith. Commissioner Chastain is unopposed.

In addition to Judge Rosser and Minihinnett, Judges A. L. Etheridge and Ralph McClellan are qualified, both without opposition.

Four men are entered in the sheriff's election: J. D. Bazemore, J. C. Aldridge, H. J. Foster and T. O. Sturdivant.

Increase Is Seen In Tax Returns In Fulton County

Fulton county tax books open this morning with preparations being made for the largest tax returns in recent years.

Heavy business is expected because the $2,000 homestead exemption and the $300 personality exemption go into effect this year.

Taxpayers who live in Atlanta and who waive the exemptions may make returns at temporary offices at the city hall. Tax Receiver Guy A. Moore said, but the law requires those taking the exemptions to fill out blanks at the courthouse.

Five extra clerks have been hired and an extra counter has been constructed near the tax office, Moore said, to take care of the increased volume of business.

Offices at the city hall will close March 15, while the county tax books will remain open until April 1, Moore said.

MRS. FANNIE D. SUBER FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Last rites for Mrs. Fannie Dowman Suber, 77, who died unexpectedly Sunday at her home in Ben Hill, were held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Owl Rock Methodist church. Rev. Wilbur H. Wilson, Rev. R. B. Hayes and Rev. Irby Henderson officiated. Burial was in the churchyard.

A lifelong resident of Ben Hill, Mrs. Suber was the sister of the late Dr. Charles Dowman, former dean of old Emory College at Oxford, Ga., and the daughter of Charles Dowman, one of the founders of the Mount Gilead Methodist church.

'Atlanta Three Bid' Acclaimed At Constitution's Bridge School

Capacity Crowds on Hand at First Day of New Play; Further Expert Instructions Will Be Given by Harold Sharpsteen Tomorrow.

HAROLD SHARPSTEEN.

Greeted with enthusiastic acclaim by bridge players from beginner to expert, the new "Atlanta Three Bid," originated and perfected by Harold Sharpsteen, The Constitution's bridge expert, made its formal debut in Atlanta yesterday.

Capacity crowds were on hand for all three classes in The Constitution's bridge school during the day to be among the first in Atlanta to hear the new bid explained.

Around bridge tables of Atlanta the new convention is receiving its initial tests against actual competition.

"When any new bid is accorded the enthusiastic reception given the 'Atlanta Three Bid' at all three classes yesterday, it seems apparent it has struck a popular cord among the rank and file of players," declared Mr. Sharpsteen.

Further expert instruction in the use of the bid will be featured at all classes in The Constitution bridge series in the Pompeian room of the Biltmore hotel again tomorrow. Classes will start promptly at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Readers of The Constitution and their friends will be admitted to tomorrow's sessions for 35 cents when The Constitution's special bridge school, courtesy coupon, appearing on this page, is presented at the classroom. Without the coupon, the regular fee is $1.

It is not necessary to have previously enrolled in the school in order to attend one of tomorrow's classes. New enrollments are accepted at any session. Players take notebooks and playing cards to the classes but it is not necessary to form complete foursomes to attend.

Clip the bridge school coupon in this morning's Constitution and plan to hear tomorrow's lesson further explaining the new "Atlanta Three Bid." The coupon saves the holder 65 cents.

Scores of new players joined The Constitution series yesterday, including many of Atlanta's top-ranking players. Beginners, however, are not being neglected at The Constitution classes, Mr. Sharpsteen declares.

CITY DELAYS BUYING 14 SANITARY TRUCKS

Bids for Four Vehicles for Parks and Health Departments Accepted.

Purchase of 14 trucks for the city sanitary department was postponed by the purchasing committee yesterday until 1 o'clock Monday to permit further consideration.

The committee accepted the bids of John Smith Company on two trucks for the health department and two for the parks department. Bids on two one-half-ton trucks for the health department totaled $1,118, while the other two were purchased for $1,500.

Contracts for 150 cars of coal for the waterworks department were awarded to the Randall Coal Company, Campbell Coal Company and the Atlantic Company. Fifty cars will be purchased from each company. The total expenditure will approximate $30,000.

A bid of $2,800 for 5,000 feet of fire hose submitted by Dinkins-Davidson Hardware Company was accepted.

SCOUTS GO TENTING IN FIRST CAMPOREE

Cook Own Meals in Test To Acquire Credits in Patrol Work.

Nearly 100 Boy Scouts of Atlanta yesterday had settled down to living in tents, cooking their own meals and becoming accustomed to other requirements of outdoor living at the Atlanta council's first annual camporee. It is now in full swing at Bert Adams Scout camp.

The camp will continue until 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. A dozen Atlanta patrols are taking part. They hope to qualify through their ability at camping to capture the titles of "standing camping patrol."

Each Scout troop in Atlanta has

Deputy's 'Hunch' Foils Break of 5

A "hunch" led Chief Deputy O. T. Griffin back to the "big cell" at DeKalb county jail yesterday to discover two hawks hidden in mattresses and a cell bar sawed nearly in two. "The boys were just too quiet," he said. The "boys" included five long-termers awaiting transfer to chain gangs on robbery and burglary convictions, and one man awaiting trial on a felony charge.

Each patrol consists of eight. The boys set up their tents, cook their meals and conduct a 24-hour program without adult assistance.

Next Saturday night's feature, a huge council fire with all Scouts participating, will be the highlight of the camporee.

WHITE TO REPLACE GRAVES AS SPEAKER

Poor Physical Condition Prevents Alabama Governor From Talking Here.

Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, scheduled to speak before the Atlanta Freight Bureau tonight and again tomorrow to the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, last night cancelled engagements because of his "poor physical condition," J. J. Doran, chairman of the freight bureau, said here.

In his place the Governor Designated Hugh H. White, chairman of the Alabama Public Service Commission, to speak tonight and named Judge Edgar Watkins, of Atlanta, to pinch-hit for him tomorrow before the agricultural workers.

E. L. Hart, freight bureau secretary, last night described White as Governor Graves' "right-hand man" in seeking lower freight rates for the south. Governor Graves is chairman of the Southeastern Governors' Conference.

White will speak at the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the freight bureau at 6:30 o'clock tonight on "The Industrial Development of the South as Affected by Transportation Costs."

Other speakers include Mayor Hartsfield, J. A. Ragsdale, chairman of Fulton county commission, and Judge Watkins, chief counsel for the Governors' conference. Directors will be elected at the meeting. Dr. William V. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will pronounce the invocation. Officers will be elected later by the board of directors.

TODAY IS POST DAY

"Guess who dropped in today! ...a BLACKMAILER!"

Sir William almost choked over that one. Would his wife never take things seriously? Just because she'd once been a showgirl was no excuse. And then to give the bouncer a fiver—"What's the matter, darling," asked Lady Julia, "wasn't that enough?"... It was plenty. Look what happened. (Look in the Post, on page 8.)

How Mexico Uses U.S. Money TO UNDERMINE U.S. INTERESTS

Revolution on a Silver Platter by FRANK L. KLUCKHOHN

Is the New Deal playing Santa Claus below the Rio Grande... to finance attacks on American businesses and landowners in Mexico? By buying silver above the market, we hand Mexico 13% of its total income, and accelerate a program that jeopardizes an American investment there of one billion dollars. The New York Times Mexico City correspondent shows you how being too good a neighbor can be a boomerang.

Mrs. Loyless Writes Report on Clinic In 'Cotton Blossom'

Of outstanding interest is the review of the Junior League Thyroid Clinic's three years of activity at Grady hospital, presented by Mrs. Augustus Loyless, the chairman, in the current issue of The Cotton Blossom, monthly publication of the Junior League, edited by Miss Louise Cramer.

Mrs. Loyless states that 25 members of the league are serving each week as doctors' assistants, receptionists, doing special photographic and secretarial work, making case histories and giving tests. During 1937, Mrs. Loyless reports, 94 new patients were admitted, there were more than 500 clinical visits and 40 thyroidectomies performed.

Mrs. Hal Smith gave an account of the accomplishments of the parent guidance service which the league has been conducting during the past year, stating that many parents had availed themselves of the service.

Mrs. Everard Richardson Jr., president of the league, in her message told of the intensive fact survey that has been conducted during the past three months by the finance committee and stressed the importance of attendance at the February meeting, which will be held this afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club when the committee presents its findings to the membership.

Miss Louise Cramer announces that the provisional members of the Junior League will edit an early issue of The Cotton Blossom. Two talented provisionals, Miss Clare Haverly and Mrs. Walter Colquitt Jr., will be in charge of the issue.

Cafe Metropole Dance Planned For Younger Set by Sarah Cates

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Sarah Cates' guests enter the Capital City Country Club on Saturday evening, February 19, they will find a bit of Paris transferred across the waters for their pleasure and entertainment. For the interior of the club will be transformed to represent the gay and festive Cafe Metropole, one of the better-known centers of Parisian night life. If you're inclined to be envious, don't begin to worry yet, for Sarah's invitations haven't even been issued. And perhaps you'll be included on the list—that is, if you belong to the lovely young hostess' legion of friends.

And how pleased you'll be when you get your invitation! Sketched on a big white card in gay red ink is a night club scene, complete with cigarette girls, floor show, floating balloons, and orchestra. Lettered on a scroll in the center of the scene is the good news that "Miss Sarah Cates invites you to a Cafe Metropole dance at the Capital City Club, Brookhaven, Saturday evening, February 19, from 8:30 to 11:30." And to make it more intriguing, are the words, "Floor Show" and "Orchestra," to give you a hint of what grand entertainment has been planned for you.

Sally hears that not a detail will be missing in carrying out the Cafe Metropole idea, from the tables, covered with red and white checked cloths, arranged around the dance floor, to the hunt for a bar where you'll be able to get a chocolate milk or your favorite soft drink. Red and white balloons, floating in the ceiling, will lend atmosphere, and future belles of society, properly costumed, will sell cigarettes and flowers from daintily decorated trays in true Parisian fashion.

Sarah's guests will be announced by a loud speaker upon arrival, and they will be given real night club programs. There will also be no-break cards, with an 11-piece orchestra playing for dancing.

Sally's scout was unable to get even an inkling of the floor show program, for that is to be kept as a surprise. But she is permitted to tell you that the party will end with a grand carnival—exquisite, comical, squalid, fortune tellers, and all. "So be sure not to miss it—you'll always regret it if you do!"

WALTER STEPHEN WOODY

received a joyful welcome when he arrived on this hemisphere at Emory University hospital last Saturday, for he is the first boy born into the Woody family in over 30 years.

No wonder he will be called "Steve" for his paternal grandfather, Stephen Woody, of Waynesville, N. C., for in every generation of the Woody family there has been one by that name.

The baby's first name honors his maternal grandfather, the late Walter O. Foote, who was one of Atlanta's most beloved and prominent leaders. Incidentally, the baby's cognomen is the same as Preston Stevens, who is called "Steve," and Walter Holmes, close friends of the little boy's father, Jonathan Woody.

The baby's mother is the former Anne Foote, prominent Junior League, and one of society's most popular young matrons. Another member of the little boy's family is his three-year-old sister, Laura, who gazed upon her baby brother and exclaimed, "Oh, what a beautiful doll!"

How very easy it would have been for Sally to realize that a prominent debutante of this season was on the matrimonial wing, if she had only chatted with one of Atlanta's younger bachelors about a week ago. When told that she was to be a mother, she was so surprised that she had to tell her friends. She was so surprised that she had to tell her friends. She was so surprised that she had to tell her friends.

Conservation of Georgia Soil Stressed By Gov. Rivers at Federation Meeting

Conservation of Georgia soil that may be second to none in the production of almost unlimited variety of foodstuffs to be grown somewhere within the eight climates of the state, was yesterday stressed by Governor Rivers in his talk before members of Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

The meeting was held at the Capital City Club, and the luncheon menu featured Georgia products. Mrs. James R. Little, president of the federation, introduced Governor Rivers and other distinguished guests. Mrs. E. D. Rivers was honor guest at the luncheon.

Georgia Grown Vegetables

Table decorations carried out the use of Georgia grown vegetables, the central motive on the "peach" table being a silver bowl filled with colorful vegetables and green foliage. Silver candlesticks held carrots to simulate yellow candles, which might well suggest the slogan, "Let Georgia vegetables light your way to health and prosperity."

The luncheon menu consisted of fruit cocktails, roast turkey with Georgia pecan dressing, telephone peas, candied Georgia yams, Georgia grown lettuce with Russian style dressing, and ice cream from Georgia dairies. The turkeys were grown at Calhoun, and luncheon arrangements were in charge of Mrs. W. F. Dykes, chairman of hospitality. Table decorations were under the direction of Mrs. Homer Carmichael and Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Hall, who made and arranged silver cornucopias overflowing with Georgia products, as central motifs for smaller tables. Sprays of pyracanthus and fern-like leaves of curly kale lent an attractive contrast.

The vegetables included endive, purple egg plant, white cabbage, parsnips, yellow squash, red tomatoes, garden peas, carrots, broccoli, white turnips, green peppers, butter beans, string beans, etc.

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith outlined something of the Atlanta Federation leadership since the time of Mrs. Ella F. White, a state president who died in service and to whom the Ella F. White Memorial foundation was dedicated. She introduced Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, chairman for the Georgia Federation of the Foundation fund. Mrs. Fitzpatrick emphasized the goal of $25,000 as the amount to be raised for the silver jubilee gift.

Celebrations Reported.

Reports of $100 to be given in the name of the Atlanta Federation contributed by Mrs. John K. Ottley; $100 given by Mrs. George B. Hinman; and $100 given by 10 Atlanta Federation leaders in the name of Mrs. James R. Little were among major contributions reported. Mrs. Robert K. Rambo and others made contributions of various amounts, and West End Woman's Club, the Civic Club of West End each reported $25 for Ella F. White fund and $25 for Tallulah Falls school.

After the business session a musical program was given by Mrs. Howard Beckett, soprano soloist and Mrs. Kurt Mueller, who accompanied her at the piano. The president's report, given by Mrs. James R. Little, was marked by unusual accomplishment during the eight months of her presidency of the Federation, efforts during this period having been concentrated on activities of de-

Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson are beloved and highly respected by a wide circle of friends throughout this state and in Alabama, where 11 years of their married life were spent in Heflin. Their marriage took place 50 years ago in LaGrange, Ga. Mrs. Edmondson being the former Miss Annie Lou Swanson, of LaGrange.

They resided in Cedartown, Ga., for 15 years and for the past two years they have made their home in Atlanta. H. G. Edmondson, of Decatur, and B. Fred Edmondson, of this city, are Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson's sons, and their only daughter is Mrs. W. J. Weatherly, of Cedartown.

A. Shearin. Mrs. Frances Cole, chairman, presided over the business meeting.

The general shape of Ceylon like that of a pear, with the stem near India. A few thousand the people are called "Veddahs" and often are spoken of as "wild men." They live in the wilds, and hunt with bows and arrows. They are the remainder of the earliest known inhabitants.

The ancient Greeks knew the island by a name which appeared to have meant "Place of the Red Lotus." The red lotus still grows here in ponds and lakes. It is pretty, indeed, and looks very much like a red rose.

The olden Chinese had two names for Ceylon. One meant "the Island of Jewels" and the other, "the Place without sorrow." There are plenty of Jewels still found here, but Ceylon has its share of sorrow. People grow sick and die, and sometimes the weather is bad. Yet the climate is good, the soil is rich and Nature has been kind in her gift of beautiful plants, trees and flowers.

Many of the trees are strange to us, and so are some of the animals.

H. W. Johnson, 63, and Niece in Hospital After Car Skids Off Road.

Injured when the car in which they were riding skidded off the highway near Vero Beach, Fla., yesterday, H. W. Johnson, 63, of 415 Hopkins street, S. W., and his niece, Miss Pearl Johnson, 20, of 918 Hill street, were in the Indian River hospital there last night.

Johnson, railroad engineer for 45 years, who now pilots the Seaboard Air Line's "Robert E. Lee," suffered a crushed collar bone, and Miss Johnson a broken arm.

Mrs. J. M. Graves, of Baltimore, Johnson's daughter, was driving the car when it suddenly went out of control. The three were on a week's pleasure trip, Mrs. Lewis P. Kanar, of 415 Hopkins street, Johnson's sister, said last night.

Many of New York's romantically named towns, such as Troy, Canaan, Nile, Carthage, are from the inspiration of a deputy secretary of state in 1790.

My esteemed friend, Mr. James D. Bazemore, has paid me the compliment of asking me to be Manager of his campaign for Sheriff of Fulton County, for the unexpired term of the late Captain James I. Lowry. It is a pleasure to render this service for Mr. Bazemore and his Deputies, for each of whom I have the highest regard.

Captain Lowry was nominated in the Democratic County Primary of March 11, 1936 (and subsequently elected), for a term of four years commencing January 1, 1937. Thus when he died a short time ago, Captain Lowry had served only a few days more than a year of his four-year term.

Neither Captain Lowry nor any other man could perform ALL of the duties of Sheriff of Fulton County. These duties are performed by a large staff of men. Captain Lowry, in his campaign two years ago emphasized that his Deputies had been selected with the utmost care, that they were trained in performing the duties of the Sheriff's office, and that no useful public purpose would be served by turning out a staff of trained men and substituting for them a staff of untrained men.

Mr. Bazemore was Captain Lowry's Chief Deputy. When Captain Lowry died, Mr. Bazemore was very logically and properly named Sheriff Pro-Tempore, to serve until a special election as required by Georgia law when a Sheriff dies. The election was called for Wednesday, March 2.

Captain Lowry's staff, with Mr. Bazemore as their new leader by their vote, are asking the people to allow them to finish the term they started with Captain Lowry. By every rule of fairness they are entitled to this. The special election called for March 2 is not a primary, but in effect a general election, and its outcome will take effect immediately. If Mr. Bazemore and his Deputies are not retained in office, by your votes, they will be required by law to vacate immediately, which would be ruinous to the public service.

As a lawyer, I have constant dealings with the Sheriff's office. I am thoroughly acquainted with Mr. Bazemore and his Deputies. They are a fine staff of men, thoroughly qualified and thoroughly trained. No opponent makes a criticism of the service they are giving and have given. The people are fair and will do the right thing by faithful public servants, and this case will be no exception. They will by their votes allow Mr. Bazemore and his Deputies to finish the term they started with Captain Lowry.

TEXTILE PAY BILL REVIVAL STARTED

Measure Would Regulate Hours and Wages for 1,250,000 in Industry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A house subcommittee moved today to revive the nation's textile bill which would regulate hours and wages of about 1,250,000 workers in the industry.

Chairman Keller, Democrat, Illinois, of a house labor subcommittee which has been considering the measure since last year, declared "we need the bill more than ever now that textile mills are cutting wages."

He said his subcommittee would report the measure to the labor committee within a few days. The textile bill, providing for a 40-hour week and minimum wages of $15 a week, was sidetracked last year by the wage-hour bill.

But Keller said he believed it was "possible to have both bills." The textile bill provides for a three-man administrative board to enforce its provisions, which include elimination of unfair trade practices as well as wage-hour standards.
